U.S. Again Proposes One-Year Test Ban

AEC Stops Yucca Flat Atom Tests

Length Of Period Depends On Reds' Actions At Parley

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time since it opened the atomic age 13 years ago, the United States began today a trial suspension of nuclear weapons test explosions.

The suspension may continue for a year, with possible indefinite renewal, or it may last only a few days or even hours. That depends on what the Soviet Union does.

The U.S. halt coincided with the opening today of a U.S.-British-Soviet conference in Geneva to seek agreement on a permanent test ban policed by an international inspection system.

Reds Reject Proposal

The Soviet government rejected a U.S.-British proposal that all three of the world's nuclear powers agree on a one-year suspension beginning today.

The Soviets contended they have the right to go on testing until they have matched bomb for bomb the number of explosions fired by the United States and Britain during the summer and fall.

The United States replied that in spite of the Soviet rejection, this government is going ahead with its suspension because the decisive element in calling it off is not what Moscow says but what Moscow does.

If the Soviet government goes on with the test series which it began at the end of September, officials said, the United States will consider that its suspension is no longer in effect and will resume testing itself. Secretary of State Dulles and Chairman John A. McCone of the Atomic Energy Commission had announced this policy earlier in the week. Authorities here understood that Britain was following the same kind of policy.

Talks Begun By Big 3 As Hope Wanes

Russians Demand Permanent End Of A-Weapon Testing

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
GENEVA (UPI)—The United States and Russia clashed publicly today on a proposed nuclear test ban. Hope of achieving an early East-West agreement to halt test explosions sagged.

Representatives of the world's three atomic powers, the United States, Great Britain and Soviet Russia, met at the Palais des Nations to try to agree on a system for policing a ban on nuclear tests.

In opening speeches, the Soviets repeated their demand for an immediate end to nuclear tests forever, while the United States said it would be prepared to halt testing on a year-to-year basis.

Both Sides Firm

Neither side specifically rejected the other's proposals. But their positions were stated so firmly as to indicate that reaching agreement would be difficult.

Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin—known as one of the Kremlin advocates of a "tough" line with the West—made one significant concession, however.

He stated specifically that Russia is ready to sign an agreement setting up a system to police any East-West ban on nuclear test explosions. Such a system was outlined by nuclear scientists of East and West who met here last summer. Presumably it would include control stations located on Soviet territory.

It was the first time the Russians had stated clearly and unequivocally that they are ready to sign a control agreement.

Independent Decision

The U.S. offer to suspend nuclear tests on a year-to-year basis was made dependent on an inspection system being not only installed but also working effectively, and on "satisfactory progress" being made toward general disarmament.

The offer was delivered to the opening session of the Geneva nuclear ban talks by the U.S. delegation chief, Ambassador James J. Wadsworth.

But in doing so, Wadsworth emphasized that such an agreement would be significant only "if it leads to other and more substantial agreements relating to limitation and reduction of fissionable materials for weapons and to other essential phases of disarmament."

The United States and Britain put into effect a one-year halt on all their nuclear tests before Wadsworth spoke, in hopes that Russia would agree across the conference table here to end the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Mine Rescue Crews Press Hunt For 49

Survivors Of Pit Disaster Say They Will Never Return

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (AP) —

Some of the 12 men rescued from a week's entombment in a wrecked coal mine have had it. Two vowed today they never will go back to the mines.

Levi Milley, 47, put it this way from a hospital bed where the lucky 12 have been recuperating since their rescue Thursday: "Well, you can say this: Levi Milley, former coal miner of Springhill and chicken-raiser on the side, is looking for a full-time job on a chicken farm some place."

"Doesn't matter where, I'll go anywhere. They'll never get me back in that mine."

"I'm never going back into that mine," said Harold Brine. "If I can't make a living somewhere else I'll starve. Being trapped like that gives you an awful feeling."

A similar view was expressed by some of the others. Or their wives said it for them.

Mine rescue crews, meanwhile, probed deeper into the Cumberland No. 2 colliery in search for 49 miners still missing in the disaster.

Assistant rescue director Frank Doxey said he held only slim hope that any more of the missing men would be found alive.

Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, planned to break his trip back to London to visit the 12 survivors tonight. They were rescued after 6½ days of hunger, thirst and despair in a debris-sealed pocket.

Doctors said all are in good shape and can return home after a short rest except for Joseph McDonald, 38, who has a broken leg. Of the 174 miners caught by the gigantic upheaval that wrecked the mine Oct. 23, the record today showed 93 rescued, 32 dead and 49 missing. The 32nd body was brought up early today.

Searchers continued digging. With several hundred feet of rock and debris still to be pierced at the 13,000 and 13,400-foot levels, it may be a week or more before the job is accomplished.

Report Shows Farmers Less Liable To Get Heart Attack

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Farmers appear to have much less risk of developing severe forms of coronary heart disease than nonfarmers as a group, a government report says.

A team of U.S. Public Health Service researchers said this was one of the preliminary findings of a survey on this disease conducted in six counties of northeastern North Dakota.

The team, headed by Dr. William Zukel of the National Heart Institute, told the 86th annual meeting of the American Public Health Assn. this story: Among 20,000 males 35 and over in the area's population, including among the farmers,

Eisenhower Claims Jabbed By Johnson

By The Associated Press
President Eisenhower makes a final bid tonight for a Republican-controlled Congress for any administration accomplishments.

Eisenhower, who has campaigned with new vigor in this year's battle for Congress, chose Baltimore for his windup vote-Republican appeal to the nation via radio and television.

The President has struck some heavy blows at the Democrats in speeches all the way to the West Coast. But he was expected to lay emphasis tonight on what he contends are his administration's achievements in the foreign and domestic fields.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas said Eisenhower has received more cooperation from Democrats in Congress than from Republicans in the House and Senate.

Speaking to a party rally in Indianapolis, Johnson said the President ought to remember "that the accomplishments he now holds forth as his own are the works of a Democratic Congress."

In this connection, Johnson mentioned antirecession measures and steps to counter Soviet scientific advances. The Texas said Democratic votes saved Eisenhower's foreign policy programs in Congress.

The Senate Democratic leader also dismissed as scare words the charges by Republican campaigners, including Eisenhower, that the Democrats harbor political radicalism.

In the same vein, Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler accused Eisenhower of using radicalism and socialism as scare words against the Democrats.

Noting that Eisenhower's Baltimore speech tonight falls on Halloween, Butler said in a statement that Eisenhower should (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Atomic Fallout Scare Hits L.A. In Test Speedup

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A record concentration of radioactive fallout was detected here Thursday, alarming thousands of residents and causing Mayor Norris Poulson to make a hurried telephone call to the White House.

The mayor later assured the area's more than five million residents that they were in no danger from the fallout, apparently the result of the hurried efforts by American scientists to beat Thursday night's midnight deadline on A-bomb tests in southern Nevada. Seven nuclear blasts were unleashed in the final five days of testing.

Trans World Faces Strike By Mechanics

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The men who maintain and service Trans World Airlines planes prepared to strike tonight and TWA says it will suspend operations if they do.

The airline, one of the nation's Big Four, said it would furlough its 19,000 employees if the 6,700 members of the International Assn. of Machinists strike.

A similar strike grounded Capital Airlines planes for the 16th day today.

TWA and District 142 of the IAM have been negotiating since their contract expired Oct. 1, 1957. Their dispute has been heard by federal mediators and a presidential emergency board. The union rejected recommendations by both.

The principal controversy concerns the union's insistence that all TWA workers covered by the contract remain under its provisions for the duration of the agreement.

TWA made a new wage offer Thursday and asked it be submitted to the membership. The union refused.

Federal Payroll Drop Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—The number of federal employees dropped 17,441 in September compared with August, Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) reported today.

Byrd, chairman of the Senate-National Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures, listed 2,356,493 on the government's civilian payroll last month as compared with 2,373,934 in August.

Guild Strike In New York Set Tonight

NEW YORK (UPI)—All seven of New York's newspapers were threatened today with having to suspend publication shortly after midnight if any one of the seven is the object of a strike by the New York Newspaper Guild.

A suspension in publication of all the city's newspapers could materialize if the Guild, as it has threatened, strikes one or two newspapers with which it is negotiating new contracts. Contracts with the seven newspapers expire at midnight tonight.

The newspapers said they would suspend publication if the Guild called a strike against any one of them and craft unions refused to work at the struck paper.

The craft unions have a common contract with the newspapers that was negotiated by the Publishers Association of New York. The association warned the craft unions that if they honored a Guild picket line it would be regarded as a breach of the joint contract and all the newspapers would suspend publication.

The Guild issued a statement saying this position confirmed its contentions that the newspapers planned a general lockout if any of the newspapers was struck and the craft unions honored the picket line.

The FBI today identified the man who landed a plane stolen in Toronto, Canada, on the Patapsco River here Sept. 30 and then disappeared as one of its "10 most wanted fugitives."

FBI special agent James Kelly said that a warrant was issued today for the arrest of Sprenz for the theft of the plane.

Cuban Rebels Threaten To Block Ballot

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban rebels' radio said Thursday night six columns of their troops have spread through Oriente Province and the northeastern part of Camaguey to wreck the presidential elections this weekend.

The radio said that with the new advances all the rural areas in Oriente Province are under rebel control.

President Batista's government did not confirm the rebel claims. Earlier in the day, the rebel high command said this began their final blow to overthrow Batista and obstruct the elections.

The rebel radio warned Cubans they risked their lives if they voted and told 10,000 candidates for national, provincial and municipal offices that they are in danger of being shot down for running for office under Batista.

Rebel leader Fidel Castro announced he was calling in what he termed representatives of work organizations to his mountain headquarters in Eastern Cuba to set the hour for a general revolutionary strike.

Reds 'Invite' Pasternak To Leave Russia

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio in 10 languages, invited novelist poet Boris Pasternak today to get out of the Soviet Union.

"Let him go where he wishes to," the broadcasts said of the writer, who turned down the 1958 Nobel Prize this week under heavy Soviet pressure. "No Soviet man of woman wants to breathe the air he breathes."

The broadcasts — in English, German, French, Portuguese, Swedish, Norwegian, Danish, Greek, Italian and Serbo-Croat — declared the author of "Doctor Zhivago" has "no place in Soviet society." They called Pasternak "a man who in spirit has long been a traitor to his country and who has now spat in its face... a poet of the decadent school... a pretender to aesthetic culture who wrote for a select few and had no contact with the people."

At about the same time, in Stockholm, a Soviet diplomat was issuing assurances that no harm would come to Pasternak and that he will still get royalties from abroad for his novel.

Nicolai Vinov, Soviet charge d'affaires, told the Swedish Writers Assn. that "no reprisals will be taken against Boris Pasternak."

Pasternak rejected the $41,420 Nobel Prize for Literature Wednesday, six days after it was awarded him. He previously had thanked the Royal Swedish Academy for the prize. He obviously changed his mind because of the storm raised in the Soviet press.

Rebel leader Fidel Castro announced he was calling in what he termed representatives of work organizations to his mountain headquarters in Eastern Cuba to set the hour for a general revolutionary strike.

Good Deed Ends In Donor Death From Stiletto

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Arne Krogh died Thursday with an inch-long stiletto in his heart. He had entered his body when he gave a blood transfusion that saved a hospital patient's life.

A month after the transfusion the 31-year-old truck driver slumped dead over his steering wheel.

The chief surgeon at the hospital said the stiletto, used inside a small tube to penetrate the vein for the transfusion, apparently slipped into the bloodstream and eventually reached the heart.

American Breaks Down, Admits Killing Woman

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Robert J. Thompson, a self-styled "mine and airplane expert" who has confessed killing Harriet Ann Hicks, of Coral Gables, Fla., was to be arraigned in a Mexico state court today. He said he thinks he beat "four or five" other American women.

Thompson broke down Thursday after 36 hours of interrogation and confessed that he beat Mrs. Hicks, who died in hospital 10 days later, and three other American women.

He said also that he "thinks maybe" he may have beaten another American woman, Anne Karry or Carry, whose bruised body was found in a Mexico City street two years ago. Her death was officially listed as a traffic accident.

Many details of Thompson's rather disjointed story have not yet been checked, but it was reported here that his three surviving victims have identified him from photographs sent to their homes.

Thompson's names were withheld by the U.S. Embassy, but two of them have been identified on the basis of information released by the Mexican police as an Ellen Donnelly and a Miss (no first name) Price. Their U.S. address

New Pope Native Of Mountain Town, Member Of Italian Country Family

By FRANK BRUTTO VATICAN CITY (AP) — Thousands in the Vatican square roared approval when Pope John XXIII stepped to the balcony of St. Peter's Basilica to give his first blessing to the city of Rome and the world.

In the narrow streets of Sotto il Monte — which means Under the Mountain — children danced and shouted: "Long life to Roncalli. Long live the Pope."

For it was in this little Italian Alpine town of 1,800 people that the 262nd pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church was born Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli nearly 77 years ago. He was the child of a poor farmer — about as different as could be from the noble Roman family that gave birth to his predecessor, Eugenio Pacelli, the late Pope Pius XII.

Humble Countryfolk The Roncallis were patricians, the Roncallis humble countryfolk. Their now most famous son has sometimes been called a countryman. It is a quality that has endeared him to many.

The quasi-royalty common to his native Bergamo province more than anything else immediately marks the difference between Pope John and his predecessor, the aristocratic Roman who for 19 years guided the church through an extremely difficult war and postwar period.

Few men looked less alike: Pius, slender, frail, ascetic; John, a 210-pounder with a robustness belying his years, a heritage of his peasant background.

But there are many similarities: dedication to the church from early life, intimate experience with Vatican administration and universal cessation of nuclear tests for all time.

The two statements indicated an early clash that diplomats feared boded ill for the conference. Wadsworth said the United States came to the meeting "with a sincere desire to achieve an agreement for a controlled suspension of nuclear weapons tests."

"We believe that the three countries represented here have now an unusual opportunity for constructive negotiations," he said, "my native hamlet and led me to, said."

Clouds Of Demo Trend Hang Over Nixon

WASHINGTON — More than campaign nerves lies behind Vice-President Richard M. Nixon's outburst against the press which is accompanying him on his final effort to stem the Democratic tide.

Everywhere he looks the political situation is working against his ambitions and is out of control. Nor has he had any training for this type of adversity, for he has made his meteoric rise largely on the coattails of two fabulously popular men: Earl Warren in his home state and President Eisenhower nationally.

The then Governor Warren maintained in power in California a whole Republican dynasty which appeared invincible while he headed it. It began to quarrel and divide when he came here to be Chief Justice of the United States. Now it appears it may shatter completely under the impact of a combination of circumstances that Nixon is powerless to influence.

JUST AT THIS moment, with his home base slipping, a powerful challenger for national Republican consideration has arisen in the other of the two biggest states, New York. A win or even a near-miss for the governorship will put Nelson Rockefeller well toward the front of GOP calculations, and about his own personal ambition there can be no question.

The political clouds hang over another area which has long seemed a source of Nixon strength. This is the Middle West, which conservative Republicanism so long controlled.

The Vice-President is not quite the hero he was to Midwest Republicans when he found his bitterly partisan battles and acted as a middleman between the late Senator Joseph R. McCarthy and the Eisenhower White House.

But he was certainly their choice among available Presidential candidates and, like the solid South of the opposition party, they have been a powerful factor in national conventions.

NIXON is expending the last of his campaign energies among them, only to discover that there, too, the old GOP foundations are shaken and the potential party powerhouses are few.

It is hard to believe that there are many Democratic "sleepers" in this area who will be coming to Washington after November 4, but all observers put at least two ahead: Senator William Proxmire in Wisconsin and Representative Eugene McCarthy, who is challenging the incumbent Republican, Senator Edward J. Thye, in Minnesota.

What Nixon sees in the immediate future has been widely reported. It is a Democratic trend which could be reduced by the reassertion of old voting habits in the actual balloting but is most unlikely to be stemmed.

A REALLY substantial Democratic majority in the Senate will even minimize the Vice-President's only Constitutional responsibility, which is to preside over the Senate and cast his vote to break a tie. In recent narrowly divided Senates, this has been an important power. With votes to spare, the Democratic leaders won't worry very much about where the Vice-President stands. In a show of personal feeling, the Vice-President mentioned that his daughters found some of his publicly hard to take. It is not on record that in his merciless Senate campaign against Helen Gahagan Douglas he spared any thought for her then teen-aged son and daughter who adore their beautiful actress-mother.

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK — There was a brief story in the papers the other day about an accused murderer suffering a further misfortune: his flying license was taken away from him because he had used his airplane to drop scurrilous leaflets over a corporation's acreage.

It brought back to memory the time Clark Gable sent a wreath of vegetables to his wife, Carole Lombard, when a location trip during the making of a film brought her into Culver City, the site of Mr. Gable's MGM triumphs. It is a minor California saga.

MISS LOMBARD has, to my personal regret, been gone a long time now and the aviator in question has, too. No harm can be done to anyone. I was associated with her professionally in those days and when her ever-loving husband, Mr. G., sent a truck and a frock-coated fellow actor to give her the vegetable wreath with the placard: "Welcome To Culver City, Home of MGM and Clark Gable," she first laughed long and loud — and then lapsed into a suspicious silence.

Two days of this silence followed, and then she sent for me.

"HAVE YOU ANY close friends who can fly airplanes?" she demanded.

I said I could fly one if it were simple enough. Little Piper Cub, or something like that.

"No, that won't do," she said. "I want a skilled aviator who will take a small chance for a quick dollar."

"What do you want him to do?" "Pa sent me that vegetable wreath and I have to top it," she said. "I've wracked my brains and I think I have it. He made a still odoriferous picture called 'Parnell.' I thought we could get a printer to turn out maybe 10,000 to 15,000 leaflets in various colors and each would say: 'Remember Parnell.' Then you could give them to your aviator friend and he could fly right over the Metro studio right at noon when everybody was coming out of stages and offices for lunch and dump them on the place."

IT SEEMED like a handsome idea and I ordered the leaflets in bilious green, angry red and humid blue, horrible colors, printed with the big, black words: "Remember Parnell." While he was getting these out, I talked long and earnestly to a friendly flyer, who seemed to think that he'd like to do that if the price was right.

"I could lose my license, you know," he said. "It's forbidden to strew leaflets over private property."

He and Miss Lombard were brought together and I imagine they arrived at a price, because he undertook the job and chanced the loss of license.

FOR TWO DAYS we stacked the leaflets into his plane and he contrived a trap-door dingus that would loose them on the MGM employees, including Gable. On the third day, a warm, sunny and lovely day with only a light, light wind, he heaved up off the ground from a small airport. I shall not identify and within a few minutes was over the MGM studios and dumping his cargo.

They fluttered down by the thousands, annoying everyone from Louis B. Mayer down and giving the studio street cleaners a vexing problem. It happened so fast and with such surprise no one thought to look up and write down the plane's wing numbers. My friend scooted out of there and disappeared over the Baldwin Hills.

JUST BEFORE loading the plane, Miss Lombard asked us to hold out 1,000 leaflets for her own use. It was days before I ever found out that she took them home and stuffed them into everything Gable owned: rolled-up socks, wallets, shirt pockets, trouser pockets, coat pockets, razor boxes and shoes. She even had them cooked inside omelets and served to him wrapped around his coffee cups.

He never said a word, never mentioned the leaflets that blanketed the studio. Days passed and she wondered when the storm would break. It never broke. About two weeks later, one Sunday night, as they sat before the fire in their ranch house he turned suddenly and said: "You want to know what I think I'll ever do again?" "What?" she asked. "Send you a vegetable wreath," he said.

And that was the end of the occasion.

Here's A Tip On Derbies

WASHINGTON — For $13.95, which somehow seemed high, the man tried hard to sell me a derby.

He had 'em in gray, brown like Al Smith's, and black, such as I used to wear and my father before me. The haberdasher said derbies are the last word in fashionable hats for gents, but somehow I remembered a headache that plagued me in my youth for months.

Pills were no good. Nothing helped until I discovered that my derby was a quarter size too small. It gripped my head like a steel band. A new hat remedied the headache. Later in Denver I bought another derby, a little bigger and a great comfort it was, too.

ONCE I USED it to carry water to my 1926 model Chrysler automobile. Many a time it saved me from a nasty bump going down the cellar stairs. The beauty about a derby in those days was its indestructibility. The label said it was made of felt, but I knew better. It was built of iron. Once a fellow got a derby that didn't hurt his head he was fixed for hats for life.

The first derbies, known then by another name, were worn by ancient Greeks. William Bowler, a London hatter, latched onto the idea back in the 1700's and his skimmers have been known as bowlers ever since by the British, except when they call 'em billycocks.

SEEMS THAT Lord Derby wore a bowler at the horse races at Epsom in 1780, but didn't create much of a splash with it. Later came William Coke, a gentleman of fashion, who used his bowler to keep his head warm, fed his horse with corn in it in emergencies, and claimed it was the only proper hat for a gentleman to wear. You know the British and the way they use their language; that's how billycocks came into being.

To this day one London hatter calls his bowlers cokes. The first derby in America was forged in 1850 at South Norwalk, Conn., by James H. Knapp, a hatter, who didn't know what to call it. He made up a dozen and a half in brown and another 18 in black and sent 'em on consignment to Henderson and Bird, jobbers in New York, where a clerk subscribed to a London paper. This carried a picture showing another Lord Derby wearing the same old hat. The hat man called 'em derbies and that first shipment was a sellout.

AMERICANS went for derbies in a large way for generations, though barbers always insisted they were the cause of their customers going bald. The lack of ventilation, they said, caused the hair to fall out.

Some of the manufacturers sought to get around this complaint by punching holes in the crowns of their derbies, but there were objections to this, too. What good is a derby for carrying water if it leaks?

DERBIES went out of style here (but not in England) some 20 years ago, along about the time that starched collars disappeared. Now, as I say, they are being pushed in men's wear stores across the land and I was tempted.

The trouble was this particular 1938 model had such a narrow brim it didn't do much for my particular type of beauty. Fact is, in the mirror, I looked like a Boston politician in that new movie, "The Last Hurrah." One other thing against derbies these days:

Current model automobiles don't develop emergency thirsts like those of the long ago.

Reporter's Notebook

By SAUL PETT

For Hal Boyle

PARIS—This late in the age of flight, it is tres gauche to admit you've never been to Paris before. But let's be gauche. I haven't been here before, and you probably haven't either.

Here are some sights, sounds, and lessons absorbed by a gauche American on his first trip to Paris:

All the clichés are true. Paris is unique. Paris is heady, confusing, thieves, utterly charming.

London and Londoners seem to invite the visitor's respect for their tradition, their history, their gallantry under fire.

Paris and Parisians don't seem to give a hoot about winning your respect. Save that for the museums, they seem to say: jump in, Jacques, the wine's fine. Live a little and let others worry about history and dignity.

SO MUCH TO SEE, so much to hear.

The sweeping boulevards, the narrow streets, the grilled balconies, the old window shutters, the book stalls along the Seine, the nuns visiting Notre Dame, the jumbled rock garden of rooftops.

The haughty sex of the beautiful, chic women, the red-cheeked men in tight pants, short broad-shouldered jackets, the men arguing over their wine in a sidewalk cafe, the street walkers with eyes that miss nothing.

The girl tenderly stroking her lover's cheek while waiting for a bus, the bus drivers in their long white butcher coats, the buyer and seller in the Central Market haggling over prices at 5 a. m., screaming on the verge of homicide and then suddenly coming to terms over a cognac before breakfast.

In Paris, it seems, no one is neutral, indifferent or perfunctory. One must do everything with passion — live, love, eat, walk, drink, shop, drive.

Ah, the driving. Parisians do not drive to get some place. They drive to win an argument. Paris is the only city I've seen where a man on a bicycle will try to elbow a bus onto the sidewalk.

FOR THE AMERICAN tourist, worried about money in Paris, it is most important to relax. It is inevitable he will be taken completely, and he might as well smile. About the only one in Paris who doesn't have a hand out is Venus de Milo.

But you no longer have to guess about the cab fare. The little cabs in Paris now have meters on the outside. This is the greatest concession to international peace that has been wrung out of the French since Napoleon was racked up at Waterloo.

Never worry about how much to tip in Paris. If you don't tip enough, you will soon hear about it from the cabdriver, waiter, or bellhop.

The rule is simple. Start with 50 francs and keep adding to it until the driver, waiter or bellhop no longer seems to be in excruciating pain. This is most important.

Look only for the absence of pain and stop tipping immediately. If he smiles, you know you've overtippled. If he thanks you, count your jewelry.

Assignment America

NEW YORK—More and more, American women are entering into politics. Their voice still is not as loud as the men's, but it is more piercing.

The handsome, suave male candidates for political posts think it's great. Women tend to clamor on the soapbox when soft-soaped by a good looking guy.

But my husband, who currently is running for nothing but cover, says beware the lady politico.

He says that boy, if you think there's a deep-freeze vicuna-coat-empire-promise-and-kickback problem now, wait till the girls get into high offices. The taxpayer will never know what hit him.

"IT IS NOT SO much a question of women being greedy—although they are—or that they cheat—although they do."

He waved before me the latest report of a business consultant, stating that 75 per cent of America's female workers will cheat on their employers if given the opportunity.

"The big thing is that politics is strictly a game. And women are devious, crafty, malevolent and without conscience when playing games."

"Now pick up your hand," he said, glowering at the gin score, "and we'll resume."

Actually, my dear spouse made the reference to the "game" of politics to cover up a very real sense of alarm he had felt a few moments earlier after reading the business story about women cheaters. Like most male devotees of femininity and tenderness in the other sex, he likes to think of girls as pure, soft, dainty and wearing aprons.

But this is what he read: Behind many a failing business, there is one woman or more with her blood red fingernails in the till.

If she has no better reason, she will cheat purely for the satisfaction she feels from outwitting her male employer.

WHEN A WOMAN is entering a relatively new field of endeavor for her sex, in this case, the big business world, she tries first to emulate the men who have set the standards of procedure. And then, as she gathers courage, she tries to better them at their own game.

This is what curdled my husband's blood. He could see them emulating the politicians' game. Then he could see them outdoing the males at their own sport.

Suddenly, in one great vicuna-colored vision, he foresaw the end of the two-party, two-sex system in the United States. "Chinchilla," he mumbled. "The presidential aide-de-vamp is wearing chinchilla."

Like his image of the male politician of the future, he went on with the rummy game, shaking his head as he blew it.

Foley For Congress

AT NO TIME in history has it been more important that the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland be represented by a Democrat. Every poll, survey and objective political forecast indicates a Democratic majority in the next Congress; only the extent of the Democratic victory is in dispute. With Democratic control assured, it is only good sense for the voters of the Sixth District to send a Democrat to Washington as Representative. This is a fact that appeals to logic beyond the clash of personalities and parties. But when the two candidates are considered individually and in relation to their attitudes and platforms, the reasons for preferring John R. Foley to DeWitt S. Hyde become all the more impressive.

THE LACK of accomplishment of Representative Hyde is almost appalling. Only three bills introduced by him in the present Congress were passed. One relates to the District of Columbia and the other two were private bills. His inability to get favorable action on the C&O Canal Parkway proposal is an example of his lack of leadership. This district needs more than an amiable and routine Representative in Congress. It needs a Congressman of vision and energy whose qualities of leadership are outstanding. Such a man is John Foley. Elected by his home county (Montgomery) to be judge of the Orphans Court, he has served as president of the Kensington-Wheaton Democratic Club and as head of the D.C. Young Democrats. In losing the 1956 Congressional campaign to his Republican opponent, he received more votes than any Democrat had ever polled in the Sixth District.

IN WORLD WAR II Foley entered the army as a private and rose to be a major during his more than four years of service. Teachers, industrial workers, conservationists, veterans and private citizens of every variety are attracted by John Foley's grasp of public problems, his progressive views and his energetic and courageous stand on important questions. Take federal aid to education, for example. "If elected," says Foley unequivocally, "I will vote for federal aid to our public schools." He calls attention to his opponent's vote (July 25, 1957) against a school program to which the Republican party was pledged. The best interests of the Sixth Congressional District will be served by the election of John R. Foley next Tuesday. He will supply the dynamic leadership that is needed to make this district once more an important force in affairs at the National Capitol.

Menshikov Slipped

THE SOVIET Union's new look ambassador to the United States, Mikhail H. Menshikov, has worked hard to create the impression that he is just one of the boys. A few Americans even seem to have fallen for the notion that the Soviet Union must not be so bad after all, if such a fellow could represent it. But Menshikov's success at conveying the impression that he is really almost one of us suffered a rather setback recently in Milwaukee. He started out fine—said he had heard a lot about the Milwaukee Braves. Then, like many another man before him, he added a few words too many. "It is," said he, "a famous football team." Now Menshikov is going to have quite a tough time restoring the shattered image of himself as an all-American Soviet boy.

THERE ARE 75,000 untried cases on the federal court docket. Looks like the Supreme Court doctrine of "all deliberate speed" is being taken too literally.

Civil Rights May Split Demos In 1960

WASHINGTON (NEA) — First real measure of how badly split the Democratic party may be on school integration and civil rights questions will appear when the Democratic National Committee meets in Washington, Dec. 6 — a month after election.

All through this campaign, Republican orators have tried to encourage the idea that a southern third party was inevitable in 1960 because of these issues.

Southern governors pretty well killed that idea at their Lexington meeting in September. But Republican leaders have tried to keep it alive by calling attention to the remarks of Democratic National Committee Chairman Paul Butler.

Butler really needs no press agent on this score. He has spoken out for himself with conviction and forthrightness that is somewhat amazing for a politician. His statements are much more direct than some made by President Eisenhower in reply to press conference questions.

BUTLER says frankly there are only three alternatives for Democrats who don't want to go along with the party on civil rights. They can vote Republican. They can stay away from the polls and not vote at all. Or they can go form a third party.

He admits that some Democrats may walk out in 1960. He says there is always the prospect of a third party. He insists he has never said he believes in or wants a third party. And he has no intention of trying to read anyone out of the party because of his views on this or any other controversial question.

Chairman Butler says he believes there are many southerners, not extremists in their thinking, who know that their aspirations and dreams for the country can best be achieved through the Democratic party.

He says the national chairman is always called on to speak for this majority opinion in the party. He is therefore taking back none of the things he has recently said about Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas.

MR. BUTLER calls integration and civil rights moral issues — not political issues. And he insists there can be no compromise within the Democratic party on moral issues.

This is pretty strong language for southern segregationists to take. It has led to some suggestions that Butler resign or be kicked out.

Senator George A. Smathers of Florida, chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, recognizes that there are sharp differences of opinion on these issues within the party. He therefore suggested to Butler that he "cease fire on the issues of 1960 and concentrate on winning the elections in 1958."

It is noteworthy, however, that Senator Smathers said he did not think Butler should resign.

Butler told a National Press Club audience that he would announce his availability or non-availability to stay on as national chairman "after the November elections."

He recognizes that the National Committee has the right to recall him at any moment. "I am subject to their will," he says. "The issue will be met and will be complied with by me."

AFTER THE 1958 elections, there was a rumormongering among some southern Democratic leaders to get Butler to resign. He resisted that pressure. It became known that he did not wish to quit while the party was a loser.

A Democratic victory this year might be considered sufficient grounds for Butler to resign in good grace. But a desire to stick to the job and lead the party organization to victory in 1960 would be understandable.

Speculation that Butler might resign at the Dec. 6 National Committee meeting in Washington is considered premature. Insiders do not expect him to make any statement on his intentions till later — if he can avoid it.

The Democrats have scheduled their $100 a plate fund-raising dinner for Washington on Feb. 28. For Butler to quit before then would be to leave the party over $600,000 in debt — a hangover from the 1956 campaign. To quit a winner, Butler would have to refill the coffers.

GOP ATTACKS FDR—In what is assumed to be the forerunner of an anti-administration campaign, the Republican National Committee undertakes its first attack on President Roosevelt's actions by distributing a pamphlet in which it charges the president has violated many of his campaign pledges.

FARMER'S DEMANDS—Federal price fixing for farm commodities is demanded by national farm organizations at a conference of midwest governors. Spokesmen ask for an NRA agriculture code to provide farm labor with an equitable wage.

STUDIES RAIL PLAN—Joseph R. Eastman, federal railroad coordinator, studies a railroad consolidation plan which would result in drastic changes in the shipment of coal. Proponents for the plan point out that numerous duplicating services would be eliminated if only two roads would serve the eastern coal fields.

BRYAN SENTIMENT—W. J. Bryan in a speech at a Democratic rally in Cleveland, says "I would rather be elected president by the aid of 30,000 Democrats each giving a little, than to be elected by the contributions of a few magnates who would tell me what I must do in order to pay them back."

BIG LUMBER LOAD—A load of lumber measuring 3,248 feet was hauled into town today by the White Lumber Company's four-horse team. The load was hauled from Flintstone over Martin's Mountain, a distance of 12 miles.

MUTINY REPORTED—A dispatch from Constantinople reports a mutiny by one of the Turkish regiments that was ordered to the Bulgarian border. Other troops were called on to fire on the mutineers and a battle raged for several hours before the regiment was subdued. The intensity of the feeling against the Sultan is disturbing to members of his cabinet who fear for his safety.

Buddies Back Scientists In Court Martial

'Railroad' Claim Made By Soldiers At Edgewood Base

EDGEWOOD, Md. (AP) — Ten young Army scientists being tried for disorderly conduct had backing today from buddies who feel the defendants are being persecuted. "Raw deal and 'railroaded'" were the barrack-talk terms used in some testimony drawn out by defense lawyer Hyman Pressman yesterday in the second day of the special court martial at the Army Chemical Center.

Several soldiers also testified—over objections by Pressman—that they had kicked in $1 or $2 to a fund to pay for the men's legal defense.

A defense source said the fund might total as much as $250. However, Pressman, self-styled guardian of the public's interest, says he has agreed to defend the soldiers without a fee.

Character Witness

Pfc. Samuel E. Jackson, a character witness among the more than 30 called to the stand yesterday, told the three officers making up the court martial board that he thought some of the men on trial were getting a "raw deal."

Another who testified in his buddies' defense, Pfc. Ronald A. Schultz, was asked, "You don't like the army, do you?"

"No, I do not," Schultz told the trial counsel, Lt. Walter V. Ferris Jr.

One witness conceded he had told Ferris he thinks the men are being persecuted, and another described them as being "railroaded."

Resulted From Party

The 10 soldiers are being tried on charges of raising a racket at an off-base party for 60 departing soldiers Sept. 25. The alleged incident occurred at the Otter Point Boat Club.

Smoldering under the surface of the disorderly charges is the contention by the soldier-scientists that their talents are being wasted. Army discipline is taking a licking, they say.

Pressman attempted for the second day to impeach one of his own witnesses.

A military policeman on the post, Specialist 4.C. Burl D. Croomes Jr. testified he could not identify those who attended the party some five miles from the post because he was not in the immediate area.

Pressman contended Croomes' testimony was contrary to his statements during a previous interrogation.

Letters Rejected

Ferris and the short, russet-haired defense lawyer tangled over Pressman's attempt to put into evidence eight letters of commendation of the accused written by persons in other states.

Ferris refused to stipulate they should be admitted.

"Either you stipulate or I'll subpoena the writers of these letters to be brought here at government expense," threatened Pressman, who originally planned to call 76 witnesses.

However, while the court was huddling on the issue, Pressman decided to withdraw his statement. He explained he and the defendants felt it would be "an unnecessary waste of the taxpayers' funds" to bring the witnesses here.

Man Said Foolish In Trying To Change Weather

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Man would be a fool to fool around with the weather.

If he could change the weather and did, he might very well wish he hadn't.

That, at least, is the view of one prominent weather scientist, Dr. Harry Wexler.

Wexler is director of meteorological research of the U. S. Weather Bureau. He also is chief scientist of the U. S. antarctic research program.

In an article published today in the journal "Science," Wexler says current proposals for large scale weather modification "are either impractical or likely to produce cures that are worse than the ailment."

Propose Carbon Film

One proposal for changing the earth's heat balance and thus alter its weather is to blacken the arctic ice pack and certain deserts with a thin film of carbon.

This theoretically would result in greater absorption and less loss of heat received by the sun. To accomplish anything with this method it would take, Wexler estimates, 1½ billion tons of carbon for the arctic and half a billion tons for the deserts.

The film would have to be laid down by low-flying airplanes, Wexler figures this could be done with 200 million flights by Air Force Globemasters lugging 10 tons of carbon per flight.

This would take considerable time. Meanwhile wind, melting, frost and snow or drifting sand would be doing their best to undo the job.

An alternative would be to generate thick fogs of ice crystals which would reduce radiation of solar energy back into space. Wexler's recipe for cooking up such a fog is as follows:

Create Ice Age

Take 10 really "clean"—that is, non-radioactive—hydrogen bombs each equal in energy to 10 million tons of TNT.

Explode them at just the right depth in the arctic ocean to produce the right amount of steam. The steam thereupon gushes into the atmosphere and condenses into water droplets which freeze, forming the required ice fog.

If the ice crystals were just right, and the fog properly distributed horizontally and vertically, and the cloud lasted long enough in the right seasons, the cold arctic might get warmer and other climatic changes might take place elsewhere.

But would that be good? No, Wexler says. An iceless arctic would release more water into the air by evaporation, and snowfall would become heavier.

This would increase the size of existing glaciers and cause new ones to form, "creating a new ice

State Employment Rise Continues

BALTIMORE (AP)—Maryland's employment rolls continued to grow in September for the seventh straight month. And unemployment shrunk for the fourth month in a row even though the jobs total is twice what it was at this time last year.

However, the Department of Employment Security notes that the total civilian labor force in Maryland in September was 1,101,600, or 21,300 more workers than were available for jobs last year.

Retail trade — principally the opening of the several large shopping centers, and reopening of school—with the return of teachers from a summer vacation, were the chief factors in the upturn of employment.

Statewide, the number of workers increased 3,500 from 1,026,700 in August to 1,030,200 in September. The total was 15,900 behind the number employed September a year ago. But again, the 21,300 new members of the labor force is an influencing factor.

Unemployment dropped 5,400, from 76,900 in August to 71,400 in September, who compared with 33,700 jobs in September, 1957. The number unemployed compared with the number of the labor force was 6.5 per cent of the civilian labor force, compared with 7 per cent a year ago.

MR. AND MRS. LEWIS R. AYERS SR.

Dear Abby - - -

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I lived with my parents for a month when we were first married. My husband had a fight with my folks over money and he hasn't spoken a word to them since. That was five and a half years ago. I think he should forgive and forget. My mother says she still loves him like a son. We have three children. The oldest one is three years old and she'll soon be asking why Daddy doesn't talk to them. How can I explain it to her? I'd like to invite my parents over, but they won't come because they know they are not welcome by my husband. Please tell me, Abby, how can I get him to forgive my folks? Print your answer, please, because he reads every word of this paper. Thank you.

DEAR WISHING: God forgives. Who does your husband think he is?

DEAR ABBY: I have a small business in my home so naturally I'm home all day. The lady across the street must be running a flop house. From my window I see all sorts of strange characters coming in and going out. She herself rarely goes anywhere and I never see anyone bringing groceries to her place. None of the neighbors know her or anything about her, but she is about 45 and uses the name "MRS. So and So." I think she should be told this is a respectable neighborhood. Should I report her?

RESPECTABLE NEIGHBOR: Report her to whom? And for what? You've got a business. Mind it!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl who has a bad case of acne and blackheads. My mother took me to a skin doctor and he said all adolescents are troubled with this because their glands don't regulate the oils right and there is nothing you can do about it but keep your face clean and put on a special ointment. He also said not to squeeze blackheads. Well, every time my mother looks at me she says, "Come here," and she squeezes another blackhead. When I remind her what the doctor said she says, "Oh, be quiet. I have to look at you all day." Abby, what should I do?

BEING SQUEEZED: DEAR BEING: Keep reminding your mother that there is no sense in paying a good doctor good money for good advice and then doing as you please.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married three years and I think it's time we started a family, but I get nothing but arguments from her. She has three sisters and they are all married and have families, but you should see them! No two of them could get through the door together. She says it was having babies that ruined their shapes and she doesn't want that to happen to her. She says it runs in her family to get fat after having a baby. Please tell her she is wrong. She won't listen to me.

TALKED OUT: DEAR TALKED: She certainly must know better, and is using this lame excuse because she has other fears. All around us are women who have had children (4 and 5) whose figures are as trim as teen-agers. Let her doctor reassure her.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DETROIT DO: Do: If you've got the spirit—76 is not too old.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Monte came to this world 10 months ago even more helpless than the average baby and has spent half his life in the hospital. Nature short-changed him in three departments: Born with spine bifida (left spine), a dislocated hip and a clubfoot. Couple Marks 60th Wedding Anniversary

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Engle were honored recently with a surprise party in celebration of their sixtieth wedding anniversary at their home, 35 Stoyer Street. They were married October 22, 1898 by Rev. James E. Moffatt, pastor of First Presbyterian Church of Cumberland. Mr. and Mrs. David Phillips were the attendants.

Mrs. Engle, the former Dorcas Thomas, was a daughter of the late George and Sophia (Edwards) Thomas and was born in Abertillery, Wales, August 23, 1880. She came to this country at the age of six with her family, first living in Baltimore and later moving to this city where she has been active in church work and musical dramatics, giving of her talent for many organizations for charity benefits.

Engle, son of the late Henry and Caroline (Snyder) Engle, was born October 21, 1876, in Biting, Garrett County. A retired stone-masonry contractor, he and his son, George F. See Dismisses Narcotic Count Against Doctor KEYSER—The narcotics indictment against Dr. William A. Flick of Keyser yesterday was quashed by Judge Ernest A. See in Mineral County Court. However, the indictment against John Pollack, no permanent address, on other narcotics law violations, was allowed to stand.

Attorney H. G. Shores, who represented Dr. Flick, argued that the indictment should be set aside because it was up to the state to prove that the two prescriptions for narcotics Dr. Flick was charged with writing were illegal. His argument was that any physician can prescribe narcotics. Therefore, it was up to the state to prove the two prescriptions were not within the law.

Judge See agreed with Shores and dropped the indictment. Prosecuting Attorney Donald C. Holt may, if he so wishes, again present the case to the grand jury at the January term of court.

Farm Groups Opposed To Better School Amendment

KEYSER — The West Virginia Farm Bureau and the Mineral County Farm Bureau are opposed to amending the taxation limitation amendment to the State Constitution by adopting the proposal known as the "Better Schools Amendment."

G. H. Ebert, president of the Mineral County Farm Bureau, said "the voting delegates of the 42-member county farm bureau voted at the last annual convention to oppose the so-called 'Better School Amendment' for following reasons:

(1) Counties already have the privilege, by a 60 per cent majority vote, to raise excess levies to 50 per cent maximum levy rates;

(2) All taxable property should be listed and assessments equalized before any further provisions are voted for increasing tax levy rates;

(3) Nothing should be done to delay or weaken the present program of property re-evaluation;

(4) An increase in the assessed valuation of property plus an added increase in tax levy rates would be unfair to the property owner, and

(5) An increase in taxes for schools would bear heavily on small property owners who are living on small fixed incomes.

Ebert concluded that "farmers are and have always been for good schools, but they do not believe that the adoption of a so-called better schools amendment would necessarily mean better schools."

Active in ROTC

Cadet Col. Ernest R. Bowling of Charleston has been appointed 1958-59 commander of the Army ROTC Brigade at West Virginia University. Cadet Lt. Col. John P. Humphries of Montgomery, was chosen assistant brigade commander.

For the first time in university history, the Cadet Corps is organized as a brigade-sized force. Col. James E. Moncrief, professor of military science and tactics, said. He explained that this type of organization more nearly approximates the new streamlined Army than did the previous cadet regiment.

The brigade consists of three battle groups, each comprising four companies.

Among the executive officers are Charles R. Ball of Keyser, who holds the rank of cadet major. Company executive officers include Wayne A. Wharton of Keyser, and Thomas Barrett of LaVale, Md., who hold the rank of cadet first lieutenants.

MOOREFIELD — More than 100 Moorefield High School graduates attended the first annual Boosters Club dinner at the Moose Home and elected W. C. Harper as president for the ensuing year. Warden Hott was named vice president; G. C. Charlton, secretary and Taylor Wilson, treasurer.

Senator Ralph J. Bean, outgoing president, was master of ceremonies. He reported that in the three years of the existence of the organization, three students had been given outright grants to enable them to attend college, additional bleachers had been purchased, for use at football games and other funds disbursed. Bean presented $50 to Principal John Mathias for the scholarship fund.

Bean said the purpose of the Boosters Club is to assist the school, and that about half the funds raised would go for scholarships and half to athletic activities. He introduced C. B. Allen whose donation to the scholarship fund enabled at least three students to go on to college.

Short talks were made by Principal John Mathias, School Superintendent Raymond Dispanet, Mrs. R. E. Fisher, Jonathan Paugh, George Hott, Mack Harwood, W. C. Harper, Warden Hott and William Harman.

Outgoing officers are R. J. Bean, president; Mrs. R. E. Fisher, vice president; G. C. Charlton, secretary and Taylor Wilson, treasurer. The Ladies' of the Moose served the dinner.

Sewage Disposal Hearing Slated

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The Public Service Commission Wednesday set Dec. 3 for hearing on an application by the city of Elkins to construct a new $896,000 sewage disposal system.

The city said it plans to finance the project through issuance of revenue bonds and with a federal grant of $250,000.

Elkins said the new facilities would eliminate pollution of Tygart Valley River near Elkins. The State Water Commission earlier ordered the city to take action to halt such pollution.

FIGHT SHAPING UP — This map of Pennsylvania shows how Congressional districts are divided between Democrats and Republicans in the 30 districts throughout the state, and which will see a down-to-the wire battle for votes in Tuesday's election. Garrett RC Drive Slated

OAKLAND — Garrett County chapter of the American Red Cross will conduct its fund campaign during the month of November, according to James A. McHenry, county chairman.

The county has been divided up into 17 districts, and a district chairman is being recruited for each area. The campaign will be conducted on district levels with each chairman responsible for whatever fund-raising procedures he or she desires to conduct in their area.

A goal of $4,800 has been established by the chapter. Fifty per cent of any money raised will remain in Garrett County to administer various Red Cross activities.

It was pointed out that the burden of the blood donation program on the Garrett County chapter has made it more necessary than ever for people to contribute generously.

Area Halloween March Success

FROSTBURG — William Vogtman, secretary of the Frostburg Fire Department, said today the annual Halloween parade sponsored jointly by the Fire Department and the city last night was a "whopping" success. According to Vogtman, the firemen distributed 886 bags of candy and 1,022 25-cent pieces. The distribution was made in front of the Elks Home, East Main Street.

Four bands, all local, led various divisions of the parade: State Teachers College Band, Beall High School Band, the Junior Band at Beall High School and the Arion Band.

Following the parade, the Arion Band, under the direction of Darrell Zeller, gave a concert in front of Murphy's store.

Serving as marshalls for the parade were uniformed members of the Fire Department assisted by scouts of Troop 48, sponsored by St. John's Episcopal Church.

Republicans Will Wind Up Campaign In Area Tonight

LONACONING — The Republican party of Allegany County will wind up its campaign for Tuesday's election with a rally today at 8 p. m. in the Republican Club here.

Tonight's program will conclude a series of 12 which have been held throughout the county in the past several weeks, according to Donald W. Mason, county campaign chairman.

The meeting will be featured by a shrimp feed sponsored by Senator J. Glenn Beall and Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde.

State Senator Charles M. See, who is unopposed for re-election, will give the invocation.

Sloan To Preside

John Elliott, president of the Lonacoring Republican Club, will welcome those attending the rally and introduce Melvin Sloan, master of ceremonies. Sloan, who is a trial magistrate in Lonacoring, and a member of the Republican State Central Committee, will introduce the unopposed candidates, other members of the state central committee and guests.

Delegates Thomas N. Berry, Noel Speir Cook, Fred B. Driscoll, Estel C. Kelley, Lester B. Reed and David J. Williams will give one-minute speeches, and each will introduce the next speaker.

Other Talks Scheduled

The same plan will be followed by GOP candidates for county commissioner, Simeon W. Green, James Orr and William A. Wilson, and Sheriff Edward R. Muir.

Delegate Cook will give a short talk on behalf of all 18 local candidates who are seeking office. State's Attorney James S. Getty will be the principal speaker and will talk on behalf of the statewide GOP candidates, James P. Devereux, for governor; Senator Beall for re-election, Rep. Hyde for re-election; John A. Derr, for comptroller, and Robert A. Wallace, for attorney general.

Williams will sing a solo during the rally, which is expected to attract a large crowd from the Georges Creek area.

The rally will conclude promptly at 9 p.m. in order to watch the nationally televised speech of President Eisenhower at a Republican rally in Baltimore.

INDIAN ROUNDUP

DANGER! Cattle and riders are hard pressed to keep ahead of a prairie fire raging in the dry sage brush.

Edmond Jackson, in charge of roundup, stops to take swig of pop.

Early each fall, in Idaho, before the first frost crusts the valley floor and the first snow tips the mountain top, the Bannock-Shoshone Indian cowboys at the Ft. Hall reservation saddle their horses, tighten their packs, and go galloping off for their big, week-long roundup.

The reservation covers some half million acres. Running about 4,000 head of white-face cattle on the ranges is a full-time job, especially at roundup time. Every available cowboy and horse is called on to help.

Some white ranchers lease grazing rights from the Indians for their stock. They too take part in the roundup. The Indians own most of the cattle.

The roundup of the cattle covers the mountain ridges, peaks and brush-covered canyons where they had been driven in the late spring to graze for the summer. After they're found, the herd is started down to the valley where they are bunched at a predetermined spot. Each rancher then gathers his own brand. Strays and calves born during the summer are branded, ear-marked and dehorned. Individual ranchers then move their herd to their ranch where saleable stock is sold, and the remainder winter fed.

Cowboy takes a breather during "cutting out" of brands.

The ranchers drive the cattle down the valley after they had been combed out of the mountains.

Won't play along, eh? A hard-to-drive critter is roped and pulled to his owner's bunch.

Calf is branded after it had been "cut out" from herd.

Indian rancher Jim Smithy unloads a deer that he shot while looking for cattle. There are no game laws on the reservation.

Ranchers Jim Smithy, Len Williams and Sherm Swim have a late supper after a long day in the saddle.

Religion, Science Take Similar Path To Truth

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International

Science and religion are "remarkably similar" in their approach to truth.

That is the conclusion of Dr.

William G. Pollard, one of the few men in the world who qualifies as a professional in both fields.

Pollard is a distinguished atomic physicist who serves, on weekdays, as executive director of the Institute of Nuclear Studies at

Oak Ridge, Tenn. Since 1954 he has also been an ordained Episcopal minister, serving as priest-in-charge of St. Francis Church at Norris, Tenn.

His dual experience has made

Pollard acutely aware of a contrast in popular attitudes toward science and religion.

"People think of science as an objective body of knowledge that can be 'demonstrated' to be true," he said in an interview.

"They think of religion as a private, subjective experience that has to be 'taken on faith'."

The Same Way

To Pollard, this reflects the

"special prejudices of our contemporary culture" rather than any inherent difference in the

"fundamental characteristics" of scientific and religious truth.

"It is difficult to demonstrate to a non-scientist even the elementary principles of physics," he said. "If a person really wants to prove to himself the truth of the whole structure of physics, there is only one way to do it. He must take the long, hard, disciplined route of becoming a physicist. Otherwise, he is simply taking on faith the validity of the insights that are shared by those on the inside of the community of physics.

"It's precisely the same way with Christianity. The only way to prove its truth is to become a Christian — a full Christian, deeply involved in the church, under its discipline, sharing its life. Then the truth of it breaks through."

Ebbing Rapidly

Pollard knows that many people who would unhesitatingly accept his findings as a physicist will be skeptical of his findings

as a Christian.

"This is part of the mind-set of our age," he said. "We have been conditioned for nearly two centuries to accept uncritically

the idea that science has a more reliable access to reality than religion."

Pollard believes this prejudice against religion which has dominated intellectual circles since the 18th Century has begun to ebb rapidly.

"Everywhere I go," he said, "I run into scientists and university professors who have followed the same path I did into the Christian faith — not because of any cataclysmic personal crisis, but simply because they have found in it the ultimate answers to man's deepest questions."

Can Be Believed

To further this "renaissance,"

Pollard said, the Christian church should concentrate on proclaiming its Gospel, not as something that modern man should believe, but as something he can believe.

"There are millions of people who are ready to acknowledge that Christianity may be admirable and helpful, but who do not believe it is true," he said.

"They find it quite shocking that we Christians should claim that Almighty God, the creator of the nebulae and the galaxies, actually came down from heaven at a particular point in history, and for us men and our salvation was made man.

"They say, 'Of course, you don't really mean that.'"

"But we do mean that — not anything less. And the really astounding thing is that those who have tested this shocking claim, in the only way it can be tested, are absolutely certain that it is true."

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—

The Public Service Commission

today had under consideration an application by the Consumers

Gas Utility Co. for an $18,000 a tomers in the Pennsboro, Cairo,

Ritchie County. The case was submitted to the commission following a hearing Wednesday.

Security Issues Aired At Westinghouse Talks

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Westinghouse Electric Corp. negotiators discussed security issues with a white collar union today, but talks with two unions represented production workers have been recessed until next month.

A morning session was sched- uled with the Federation of Westinghouse Independent Salaried Unions. A union spokesman said the talks were deadlocked at the end of Thursday's session.

Negotiations with the Interna- tional Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) and the United Elec- trical, Radio and Machine Workers (UE) will resume in mid No- vember. Both unions reopened talks with Westinghouse earlier in the week after a two-week recess.

The negotiations with the three unions and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) were begun under a reopening clause in the current five-year contract.

Earlier in October, the four un- ions rejected a sweeping security plan proposed by Westinghouse.

Princess Grace, to your children and to the inhabitants of the principality our first apostolic blessing."

Bids Approved

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Road Commission today approved and passed on to the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads for concurrence low bids totaling some $3,825,300 on 10 federal aid road projects in West Virginia. Two are interstate jobs — including one of $2,442,000 for some 2 1/2 miles of roadbed construction for

Route 77 in Kanawha County.

Picnic Kit Plan Popular

Citizens made good use of the picnic kit service offered by the Cumberland Recreation Department, a check of the past year's records shows.

Eugene Mason, recreation di- rector, said the department prepared 121 kits from May through September, and he estimated the recreation kits were used by some 21,825 persons.

Kits are made up by the Rec- reation Department staff to include the commonly used play equipment needed for a picnic attended by about 150 persons.

A normal kit consists of softball equipment, volleyballs and nets, badminton nets, racquets and shuttlecocks; horseshoes and pegs, a tug-of-war rope, burlap sacks for racing, and a rubber ball.

The department requires a de- posit fee of $2 for each kit, and groups are charged for breakage or loss.

Oystermen Start Deep Water Hunt

CRISFIELD, Md. (AP)—Watermen start dredging for oysters in Maryland tomorrow and hope they can do better than the fair luck tongers have been having.

Sail boats with their dredges dropped overboard will hunt for the bivalves in deeper water than the tongers, who generally operate in 12 to 15 feet of water.

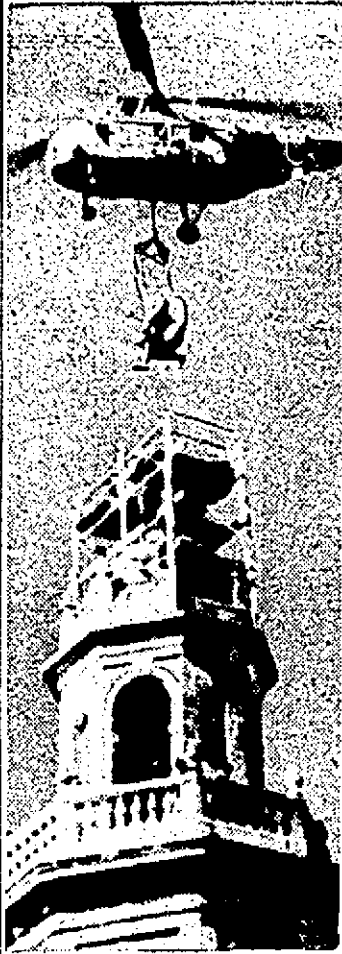

The tonging season opened in some of Maryland waters Sept. 1. The season in Somerset County started two weeks later. Watermen have reported fair catches so far.

The dredgers predicted that they'll haul in 50 to 60 bushels of oysters a day.

Tongers have reported some of the oysters in the deep water of Holland Straits were found to be dead. A fairly good supply of healthy ones has been found on Hall's Bar off Deals Island.

About 150 tongers staked out claims in Holland Straits, in the State's seedling area, when it was opened to tonging Oct. 14.

The first automobile to travel more than a mile a minute sped down a straightway course on Ocean Parkway, Brooklyn, N. Y., on Nov. 16, 1901.

Wall Streeters Would Welcome Market Drop

By ELMER C. WALKER
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Many Wall Streeters of the old school would welcome a substantial drop in the market at this time.

But, they ruefully admit there probably isn't a chance of getting one. They agree in many instances with the diagnosis of the market set forth in the current Standard & Poor's "Outlook":

"An adjustment at this stage would go a long way toward preserving the list's internal health and minimize the chances of a severe setback later on."

"Two courses of action are open. One would be for a reaction of normal technical proportions. The other would be for the list to quiet down and move irregularly in a sideways pattern while waiting for business to catch up."

"In view of the widespread feeling of confidence and the pressure of funds seeking the investment, we are more inclined to believe that the latter course will prevail."

Recently the list has been feeling the effects of the higher margins and the rise in the discount rate.

The current discount rate is 2 1/2 per cent in five district banks and 2 per cent in the other seven. The latter are expected to fall into line but no further increases are anticipated for some time.

The reason for this belief is that a rise later on would hurt the treasury's operations in the market. It will be in the market in mid-November for $3 billion in cash and again in December with a refunding operation.

Those who look on a 2 1/2 per cent discount rate as high for this time might look back over the record to 1929. On Aug. 9, 1929, the discount — then called the rediscount rate — was raised to 6 per cent from 5 per cent in an effort to head off speculation. It was put back to 5 per cent on Nov. 1 after the jolting market slides of late October, 1929.

Back in late October of 1929, the market community was having its troubles in keeping the books posted so heavy was the volume. Take the week that began on Monday Oct. 28. Sales on that Monday totaled 9,212,800 shares. Next day—Black Tuesday—the volume hit the all-time high of 16,410,030 shares. On the 30th, sales were 10,727,320. The market opened at noon on the 31st and even so did a volume of 7,149,390 shares.

It closed Friday and Saturday and reopened the day before election when volume totaled 6,202,930 shares. Then came a series of 13 sessions with the market opening at 1 p.m. to give the clerks time to catch up with their back work.

This conjuring up the 1929 volume is merely a reminder that we've been having some heavy trading of late in this market, and the clerks are tired enough to appreciate a holiday the day before election day.

Reynolds & Co. in its weekly market letter has this to say on the subject today:

"Considering the hectic and huge volume markets of recent weeks, Wall Street as a whole and its back offices in particular, are thoroughly exhausted at this point."

"It would be a nice, though most unlikely gesture, to close the Exchange Monday before election day, which would thus afford a four-day rest for many and permit others to catch up on their work load."

The Reynolds commentator hopes for a setback in the market of a one-third correction of the sharp rise since July. This would bring the Dow-Jones Industrial average back to about the 324 level.

Street Sign Proposed For "Wise Guys"

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI)—City Commissioner Robert H. Blandford suggested today that the city put up a special street sign for "wise guys" to turn to their heart's delight.

Blandford made the suggestion after City Engineer Cecil L. Simmons said it takes a special crew most of Monday to correct street signs that have been turned around to confuse the public.

Blandford said the ideal spot for a special sign would be at the intersection of Crescent and Ottawa—right in front of police headquarters.

Water Plant Organization Move Planned

Light To Suggest That Hitchcock Pact Not Be Renewed

A reorganization plan for the city's water plant at Lake Gordon was announced today by Commissioner G. Ray Light who said it will be recommended that the contract of Water Superintendent George M. Hitchcock not be renewed when it expires next January 15.

This was one facet of an overall program which is contingent upon approval of the Mayor and Council expected Monday.

Effective tomorrow, Light said, C. L. Brotemarkle, assistant superintendent of Evitts Creek Water Company, will become assistant superintendent in charge of all water plant operations.

Nixon Is Foreman

Light said Albert Nixon has been named foreman over maintenance operations.

In addition to the job changes, an order is also expected to go before council Monday equalizing the pay of employees at the water plant with that paid to other employees of the Water Department. That figure is $1.64 an hour.

In connection with the pay stabilization move, Light said water plant employees have been placed on a regular shift schedule with certain specific duties to perform. The stabilization has been requested by water plant employees the past four years and has been subject of an intensive study by Light and members of council since they took office last July.

Light said the study covering operation and maintenance of the filtration plant brought out the necessity for having job classifications and wage stabilization for each employee. All positions have been classified and a memorandum sent to the Cumberland Civil Service Commission which has approved.

To Save $13,000

A saving of $13,000 in wages will result from the new move. Light said under the present set-up, wages of employees in the water plant section totaled $33,648 as of July 6. After the approval of the order, as proposed, total wages would amount to $20,307. Light said Hitchcock's salary as superintendent of Evitts Creek Water Company is $7,200 a year. His contract expires January 15, 1959, and it is recommended that this contract not be renewed so that a total savings to the city annually in this one section of the Water Department will be approximately $13,000.

Light said at the present time it is not known whether the post of superintendent will be continued after Hitchcock's present contract expires. By that time, there may be a new plan of operation, he continued.

Two Jobs Abolished
Light said that in the reorganization of the section, it had been necessary to abolish only two jobs, that of pipefitter and watchman which council approved Monday. However, he pointed out that during the early spring it will be necessary in all probability to hire an additional maintenance man but that his salary has already been taken into consideration when stating the entire plan will effect a saving of $13,000.

Hitchcock started work for the city January 15, 1948 as smoke abatement engineer and superintendent of the water company. When the smoke abatement department of the city was abolished in 1953, he became full-time superintendent of the company. Light said Hitchcock's contract and benefits therein will continue until the termination date.

Wiring Display Planned Tuesday

The Potomac Edison Company and representatives of manufacturers and distributors of electric wiring will sponsor a "Watts New" residential wiring equipment display Tuesday at the Port Cumberland Hotel.

The display will be the first of what will be an annual show, and will be open from 4 to 9 p. m. Invitations have been sent to electrical and building contractors, architects and their employees. The representatives will demonstrate the latest equipment that is available, spokesmen said.

It was explained that the display is being presented since many of the electrical and building contractors in the area have not had an opportunity to see demonstrated equipment that can help reduce labor and material costs.

Fireman Dies Fighting Blaze

BALTIMORE (AP)—One fireman died while fighting a stubborn warehouse blaze today. A score or more firemen were hospitalized.

Mersey Hospital identified the dead fireman as Lt. Charles Leutner, about 40. Mersey also had 19 others rushed in by a fleet of ambulances, and Johns Hopkins Hospital reported nine more were brought there.

Dr. Robert Mahon at Mersey said Leutner apparently died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

SITE OF LONG SPAN—The Potomac Edison Company will stretch a 1,400-foot long span across the east end of the Narrows. This picture taken from the Haystack Mountain side of the gap shows the wide expanse. It will be the longest high tension span in the Potomac Edison system. The wires will run from poles on the left to poles in the encircled area. The five mile line runs over Wills Mountain to Ellerslie, connecting that section with the substation just off Valley Street. The job is described as one of the toughest.

Surplus Food Available By December 1

Surplus foods will be available for distribution in Allegany County by December 1, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners noted today.

Grant Wiebel, who has been named by the board to be in charge of the distribution, said six carloads of commodities will arrive here in three weeks. The food to be sent here by the federal government for food eligible are rice, corn meal, flour, butter, cheese and dried milk.

The county board has been working since April to get the program underway, and has encountered considerable government "red tape."

The printed application forms have not been received from the printer, but Wiebel said they are to be distributed soon to the three agencies that will coordinate their efforts in the program. These organizations are the Associated Charities, Red Cross and Salvation Army. After forms are filled out in duplicate by applicants at the agencies, they are accumulated by Wiebel.

After processing, one copy is returned to the agency for distribution to the applicants who meet the requirements. Wiebel also noted that he has already placed an order two months ahead of time for carloads of corn meal and flour that will be available for distribution by January 1.

Civil Service Exam Planned

The Cumberland Civil Service Commission is preparing to conduct examinations for assistant city engineer, clerk in the Water Department and a promotional exam for chief clerk in the Water Department.

These were discussed at the regular meeting of the commission Tuesday night in City Hall. The Mayor and Council requested that a list be provided for possible future action for two assistant city engineers because of the crash of work in the Engineering Department. Council also created the post of a second clerk in the Water Department and the promotional exam for chief clerk is made necessary by the retirement of Andrew G. Bender under the city's new compulsory retirement ordinance at age 70.

The commission also approved a reclassification of Water Plant employees as proposed by Commissioner G. Ray Light in which duties for positions are listed. Commission approved the classifications pending posting of them on the bulletin board at the filter plant for a period of 30 days. This is done to allow time for employees to review the changes.

Goes Before Jury

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Federal Court trial of Blain Frantz, 52-year-old Friendsville lumber and cattle dealer charged with evading $25,240 in income taxes, goes to the jury today.

Opposing counsel finished their closing arguments yesterday and Judge R. Dorsey Watkins was to charge the jury this morning, the fifth day of the trial.

Company To Start Wire Job On New Transmission Line

The Potomac Edison Company will start stringing wire on its new transmission line from Cumberland to Ellerslie within the next 15 days.

Harry G. Grimes, superintendent of the line department, said the task of erecting the poles and anchors is 90 per cent completed.

And when the line job starts it will include the longest 34,000 volt span in the Potomac Edison system.

1,400-Foot Span

The span will be 1,400 feet across the eastern end of the Narrows. Five wires will be strung from one cliff to the other. The high tension line that will furnish an additional loop supplying North End goes from the substation just off Valley Street, along the side of the hill at Campobello and up Haystack Mountain to the jumping off place.

From the other side of the Narrows on Wills Mountain, the line goes over the mountain to Ellerslie, a distance of about five miles.

Tough Project

The job of digging, blasting, boring the holes for the poles has been one of the toughest in the memories of veteran linemen in this section, which is normally difficult because of the limestone mountains.

Grimes said the Narrows span will cross two railroads, Route 40 and Wills Creek. Temporary clearance poles will be erected during the project to carry the wires over them.

A bulldozer will be placed on one side to pull the wire across, he added.

Barring bad weather, the PE line crews hope to have the project completed to Ellerslie this year.

Meeting Date Set. For Commissioners
The next meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners will be Wednesday as the regular date falls on election day.

Democrats Hold Biggest Rally Of Campaign

With over 500 persons attending, the Democrats staged their largest rally of the current vote-getting campaign last night at the Eagles Home.

John J. Rowan and John Tucker Mason, candidates for county commissioner, took Simeon W. Green to task for statements attributed to him at a Republican rally a few nights ago.

They said Green had singled out Patrick J. "Derby" Stakem as an example of a Democrat on the county board and accused him of failure to cooperate in helping locate Allegany Ballistics Laboratory in Allegany County.

Rowan declared, "It is a shame that people have to listen to statements by political candidates about ABL. This defense establishment certainly has no place in a political campaign and the fine people there have every right to resent it. Further, it is difficult to understand why Mr. Green, my Republican opponent, should attack Derby Stakem. It is especially hard to understand why anyone... should attack a man who is flat on his back due to long illness and unable to defend himself."

Rowan charged that statements attributed to Green were incorrect because Stakem was appointed a county commissioner by Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor in January 1940, and was not a commissioner in 1938, as Mr. Green alleged.

Rail Industry Chugging Out Of Recession

Recovery Not Yet Complete; Is Basic Factor In Economy

By JOHN MINE

BALTIMORE (AP)—Railroads, one of the first industries to be hit by recession and among the last to recover, appear to be slowly chugging out of the dark tunnel of recession.

And that's good tidings for all of Maryland, served by three major railroads. For when railroad business starts to turn upward, usually so does the face of an entire frowning economy.

This is especially true in Maryland, historically and industrially a railroad State and home headquarters for two roads and division headquarters for another.

Recovery is not complete yet by any means. For one thing, railroad employment is still down. But top railroad men are no longer whistling in the dark. They see a possible end to that highballing ride down the mountain marked recession.

Carloadings Rise
"Carloadings were definitely on the rise in October," a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad spokesman said.

A Western Maryland Railway official saw "indications of an end to the decline in the freight business and a possible beginning of an upturn."

Operating revenues, said the Pennsylvania Railroad, were greater in September than in August, the month the Pennsy moved into the black for the first time since October, 1957.

A Baltimore and Ohio spokesman believes "the trend of a moderate and gradual improvement in our business will continue over the next few months and that, as a floor, the present level of our traffic will continue through the rest of 1958 and the first quarter of 1959."

And after that?
"The obvious uncertainty prevailing both in this country and abroad prevents any reasonable forecast beyond the next six months."

The B & O—which has its main headquarters in Baltimore—reports operating revenues have been climbing fairly steadily since last February, the low water mark, when revenues dipped to $27,461,000 and the firm had a deficit of $989,000. In September, operating revenues reached $32,671,000 and net income $1,653,000—the latter still well below the 1957 figure.

Brighter In September

The Western Maryland said its gross revenue for August this year was 19.5 per cent under August of last year but brightened in September when it was down only 13.1 per cent.

As for employment, the Railroad Retirement Board office serving Baltimore and several nearby counties reports 2,000 railroaders still claiming unemployment benefits. A spokesman saw no indication yet of a "major change" in railroad employment.

Normally the roads employ an estimated 15,000-20,000 in Maryland.

The railroads themselves say they simply don't know when they can call back the bulk of their furloughed help.

They say as business improves (Continued on Page 19)

Sanitarian Post Will Be Filled

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners today approved the selection of a sanitarian for the Allegany County Health Department.

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, informed the board that William F. Williams had been chosen from a list of applicants for the job of Sanitarian III.

Steps are being taken to have the appointment approved by the State Health Department by November 15. At that time a six-month probationary period will start, Dr. van Strien said.

Members of the committee in charge of the affair, were Harry Shobe, chairman, Arnold Robertson, George O. Hollar, Marcus Naughton, John Snyder, William Dailey, Robert Keech and James Garland.

Three wills were admitted to probate in Allegany County Orphans Court today.

They were the last testaments of John McKean, David Bradley and Jane Napier Askey.

McKean named Edward J. Ryan as executor of his estate. A bequest was made to Mrs. Joseph Sollers of Oakland.

Bradley left all his property to his wife, Hannah M. Bradley, 209 South Street, who was also named executor.

Mary Askey Roberts was named executrix of the Askey will. Jessie Meek Askey was bequeathed one third of the estate while the remaining two thirds went to nieces and nephews.

Petitions Ask For Road Jobs In East Area

Supervisor Says U. S. Aid Requires High Standards

Today, the last meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners before election time, was roads day.

There were two requests for small road projects, and two petitions asking major work in the eastern end of the county. And during the discussion by the various groups there erupted the old disagreement that has existed over the cost of building county roads with federal aid money.

Over 200 Names
One petition contained the names of 109 signers. That was for the paving of Mill Run and Walnut Ridge roads.

The other, with 124 names, wanted hard surfacing of Little Orleans Road from the end of the present paved section to the Little Orleans Post Office. This group also asked for work on the north end of High German Hill Road from Orleans Road to Ziegler Road.

Harry Skelly, county roads supervisor, acknowledged that there is heavy traffic on the roads, and remarked that much maintenance is necessary on them.

However, Commissioner William A. Wilson observed that the repair funds must be allocated as evenly as possible in all districts. He said it is desired that all roads could be paved, but the work has to be done when funds are available.

Suggest Federal Aid
One speaker suggested using federal aid, but Skelly pointed out that the high specifications for federal aid roads make that work much more costly than the roads built by the County Roads Department.

Commissioner James Orr, board president, noted that each year a number of roads are submitted for being made eligible for state aid of $800 a mile annually.

The roads nominated are forwarded to the state and then a certain number are selected to be placed in the mileage that is eligible for the gasoline tax money.

But Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson differed with Commissioner Orr, stating that the county can see to it that a certain road gets into the mileage total.

Aside to Wilson, Wilkinson said "You haven't been thoroughly informed about the policy that has existed before you were on the board."

Can Check Policy
Then Orr retorted that Wilson could find out a lot if he checked the board's policy before 1950.

Wilkinson said "We didn't have the money then."

The exchange referred to the period before 1950 when Wilkinson was board president, and after that time when William H. Lemmert was board president.

In his terms on the board, Wilkinson has been an advocate of using federal aid funds.

Two minor projects were asked by ten families on Ioka Drive off Route 220 north of here and at Cresap Drive and Fourth Street in Bowling Green.

Church Plans Liquidation Of Mortgage

The liquidation of a $15,250 mortgage on the new parsonage of St. Mark's United Church of Christ will be observed at the 11 a. m. service Sunday at the church, according to Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor.

Participating in the mortgage burning ceremony, besides the pastor, will be A. M. Steiner, treasurer of the congregation, and members of the building committee, headed by William E. Underdonk, chairman. The new parsonage is located at 520 Edgewood Avenue in the Johnson Heights section, Rev. Mr. Clapp said.

The former parsonage at 221 Harrison Street has been converted into classrooms and is being used as quarters for the Sunday School, the pastor explained. Rev. Mr. Clapp added that the building committee plans a remodeling of the former parsonage and connecting it with the church, or the construction of a new section to the Harrison Street side of the church.

St. Mark's is one of the oldest Reformed churches in the area. Rev. Mr. Clapp stated, explaining that it now functions as a unit of the United Church of Christ, composed of a recent union of Congregational, Christian and Evangelical and Reformed faiths.

Court To Hear Writ Request Tomorrow

SRC Seeks To Force Auditor Move On Pay For Employees

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Supreme Court will hear a request Saturday for a writ of mandamus to force Auditor Edgar B. Sims to process the full October payroll for SRC employees.

Sims refused Wednesday to honor a payroll voucher dated Oct. 23 saying at the time that it was "false" because it certified employees had worked a full month.

Under a new and controversial policy announced by Sims some weeks ago, payrolls of state agencies no longer are accepted until the work month is completed. In effect, this delays from the traditional last day of the month until the 10th or 15th the payday of state employees.

It was learned that attorney Charles E. Mahan of Fayetteville, who represents the commission in the court proceedings.

The commission submitted the payroll in an apparent step toward the court test. Sims' plan has been widely criticized. Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, among its opponents.

Sims said he had approved pay vouchers for the first half of the month for SRC employees. It was learned the checks had been written by the treasurer's office. It was not determined, however, if the commission would wait until after the Supreme Court action to decide whether to distribute the 15-day checks.

West Virginia Candidates Keeping Busy

Randolph Declares Republican Policies Offer Little Hope

By United Press International

All four candidates for election next Tuesday to two U. S. Senate seats hit the West Virginia campaign trail Thursday night while two non-candidates—Gov. Cecil H. Underwood and Maine Democratic Gov. Edmund S. Muskie—also made major political addresses.

Sen. John D. Hobbittzell (R-W. Va.) said his opponent—former congressman Jennings Randolph—did not "deserve the support of traditional Democrats" in the state because he had accepted a $9,000 contribution from the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education. Hobbittzell said such large contributions are not offered with an obligation of support. Hobbittzell spoke at Williamson.

Randolph, speaking at Sutton, said his opponent (Hobbittzell) was "the chief exponent in West Virginia" of the Republican administration's "do as little as possible attitude toward recession and inflation." Randolph said such a policy "offered little hope to the vast number of West Virginians caught in the economic squeeze of the impact of recession on the one side and the high cost of living on the other."

Rep. Robert C. Byrd (D-W. Va.) accused Sen. Chapman Revercomb (R-W. Va.) of "inconsistency in his voting record on foreign aid." Byrd, speaking at Bluefield, said Revercomb's attack against his own record apparently was "in hopes to appear as the sole defender of military alliance with other nations."

Revercomb, addressing a group in Logan, said he favored the right of union members "to elect their own officers and to protect their union funds." And he accused Byrd of voting against legislation which would have provided this during the past session of Congress.

Underwood made a television address at Wheeling. He said if his administration was to continue making reforms which the people indicated they wanted in 1956, Republican candidates must be elected next week. The governor said election of Republican candidates would allow for "programs to be considered by the Legislature" and "progress in the state to be effected."

Gov. Muskie said he felt the most pressing single issue in the West Virginia election campaign was the "economic development of the state." He said industrial development efforts "can be fully effective only in a favorable national economic climate." Muskie spoke at Bluefield to a Democratic fund-raising dinner.

Republican Winners MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—Republican incumbents Chapman Revercomb and John D. Hobbittzell were victorious in West Virginia's two U. S. Senate races in a mock election Thursday among West Virginia University students.

present county board has no respect for the way it spends the county's money. He charged the board members are interested only in perpetuating a chosen few in public office and are not interested in the future welfare of the county or of its present or future citizens.

Howard P. Loughrie, candidate for sheriff, reiterated his platform and experience as a peace officer. He pressed again for a county-wide program for young people, such as the Junior Sheriff Association, to help curb the problem of increasing delinquency.

Candidates for the House of Delegates George A. Boch, Thomas F. Conlon Jr., Graydon S. Dunlap, Edward P. Flanagan and William Walsh, also took to task the Republican candidates.

Also speaking in behalf of the candidates were Simon F. Reilly, county campaign manager; William C. Walsh, Julius E. Schindler and Matthew J. Mullaney.

Talks Heard By Educators At State Meet

President-elect Of West Virginia Is Among Speakers

By United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. Cecil H. Underwood and president-elect Elvis J. Stahr of West Virginia University were among principal speakers today during closing sessions of the 94th annual West Virginia Education Association convention.

Underwood and news analyst William C. Mott were scheduled to speak before a concluding general session this afternoon.

Stahr was to speak to a combined meeting of elementary principals, secondary principals and public school superintendents. Marshall College President Stewart H. Smith was to address another WVEA affiliate, the Association of Higher Education.

Karl H. Berns, an executive of the National Education Assn. was to speak to members of the Classroom Teachers Assn.

At the opening session Thursday Mark Van Doren, Pulitzer prize winning poet, called for better teachers with more concentration on "basic subjects." He said teachers should be paid higher salaries—about twice present amounts—and that Americans did not have a first-class education program. He said Europe "was still the place where great education goes on."

The educator said he was of the school which believed that "all children are gifted" and no special emphasis should be given any select group.

Clarksburg Doctor Dies When Crushed By His Car

former president of West Virginia Wesleyan College.

Authorities said today an investigation indicated Dr. John F. McCuskey, 48, a leading Clarksburg physician for nearly a quarter of a century, was thrown from his car when it missed a turn in a road near here Thursday and the vehicle overturned on him. He was crushed to death.

McCuskey was driving alone along the so-called Country Club Road about two miles south of here off U. S. 19 when the accident occurred. He had played golf with friends Thursday afternoon and was returning home at the time of the accident.

Police said the doctor apparently lost control of his car on the curve, which is not excessively sharp.

McCuskey, a practicing physician here since the early 1930s, was a son of Dr. Roy McCuskey, a retired Methodist minister and

CAB To Begin Review Of Local Plane Service

The Civil Aeronautics Board has notified Mayor J. Edwin Keech it will begin an investigation of whether temporarily certified air service here should be renewed.

Three-year certificates issued to 14 local service airlines authorizing service to 95 cities are due to expire between December 6 and February 10.

Cumberland is served by Allegheny Airlines, whose certificates to temporary points will expire February 10.

When air service was authorized, the CAB issued permanent certificates for cities which generated at least five passengers a day. Temporary certificates were issued to a number of cities, including Cumberland, to give the board a chance to re-assess traffic development and permit cities to demonstrate their traffic generating ability.

Early last year, Allegheny asked the CAB to allow it to suspend air service here temporarily. It said the city's five-year traffic average was 1.9 passengers a day and that limitations of the airport's approaches prevent the firm from developing the type or pattern of service required to develop traffic.

The CAB, in denying the carrier's application, said it recognizes there is an operational problem at the Cumberland Municipal Airport which restricts the period of the day during which service can be provided.

But it said it is not clear that the period is so restricted that service cannot be provided, adding:

"On the other hand, there is some indication, as Cumberland alleges, and as Allegheny admits, that the low traffic response at Cumberland is due to the low frequency of schedules provided."

The dictionary defines "pundit" as the "humorous name for any small or insignificant place."

Blaze Burns Forest Land; Hunters Cited

Careless hunters were blamed for a forest fire yesterday afternoon which burned over about two acres of private woodland located off the Oldtown-Orleans Road.

William H. Johnson, district forester, who said the fire was under control about an hour after it was detected, pointed out the fire danger is getting worse in the forest areas of the county and district.

The blaze was spotted from the fire tower on Town Hill, according to Johnson, who said the flames were brought under control about 3:15 p. m.

Fire fighting work was under the direction of Floyd Custer, Green Ridge State Forest superintendent, and William Slider, forest guard.

A group of boys from the Green Ridge Boys Camp did the mopping-up work, Johnson added. Personnel of the forestry department went to work digging a fire line around the area.

The forest areas of the county and district are "getting drier all the time," according to Johnson, who said the forest floor is becoming drier due to high winds yesterday and Tuesday.

Leaves are falling from the trees rapidly, he added. He is urging hunters to be a little more cautious and careful while in the woods.

Townsend To Make Documentary Film

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—British Group Capt. Peter Townsend, former suitor of Princess Margaret, stopped off here for 90 minutes today en route from Hong Kong to Tokyo.

He was accompanied by the documentary film crew which is helping him make a movie. Townsend refused to talk with newsmen.

Cowboy Cops

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (UPI)—Ohio Highway Patrol officers were faced with a weighty problem Wednesday when a tractor-trailer carrying 31 Blank Angus steers careened out of control on U.S. 35 after the driver apparently fell asleep. The vehicle wrecked, freeing the steers but the valuable animals wandered into a nearby field and were rounded up several hours later, apparently little the worse for their experience.

Maria Schell Portrayal Rated Among TV Finest

By WILLIAM EWALD
New Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — TV has seen some exceptional performances by actresses this year.

Back in January, Maureen Stapleton turned in a superb job in a piece called "Blast in Centralia No. 5" on CBS-TV's "Seven Lively Arts." Miss Stapleton also has to her credit her playing in "All The King's Men" on NBC-TV's "Kraft Theatre."

Only inches behind, I would place Julie Harris for her work in two NBC-TV "Hallmark Hall of Fame" dramas, "Little Moon of Alban" and "Johnny Belinda."

Just below these two giants, I would list Piper Laurie for her CBS-TV "Playhouse 90" chore, "Days of Wine and Roses," and Maria Schell for her performance Thursday night on another "Playhouse 90" drama, "Word From a Sealed-Off Box."

Miss Schell, making only her second TV appearance—her first was last June on an NBC-TV "Wide World of Sports" telecast—carried almost the entire weight of Thursday night's drama. Her role was an awkward one, running as it did from innocent to initiate, from a kind of maniacal desperation to a calm cunning.

Miss Schell not only ran this difficult gamut, she ran it with warmth and radiance. She is an actress of sensitivity and fervor, a girl with a rare chunk of face—wistful, pensive, wan, but strangely worldly, too.

As for the play, a study of a Dutch underground member's involvement in a Nazi prison, it was a fairly moving examination of hope-in-despair, flawed only by its structure, which seemed more narrative than dramatic. By that I mean that it proceeded in a straight line, almost like an hour glass running out.

Some of the minor roles in "Word From a Sealed-Off Box" were well played particularly those of Theodore Bikel and Betsy Von Fursenberg.

NBC-TV replaced "Twenty One" Thursday night with "Concentration," a quiz that's already seen five times a week daytime.

Jack Barry emcees the P. M. version of this rather mild mannered offering which is based on a children's card game. The prizes fall in the moderate class—the highest Thursday night was an airline trip around the world, but most of the stuff doled out.

All television program listings are supplied by the broadcasting stations themselves, and are subject to last-minute change without notice.

Area Scouts To Organize Honor Order

The newly-organized Order of the Arrow in Potomac Boy Scout Council will hold its first meeting tomorrow at Camp Potomac near Oldtown.

The Order of the Arrow is a national scouting brotherhood which honors campers. In August, Potomac Council elected 25 boys and seven adults to the order.

The meeting will begin at the camp at 9 a. m. with members of the order engaged in a work session at the camp. Those who plan to attend should bring their own lunches.

Karl Taschenberger, chief of the order, said a business meeting will be held during the afternoon. The group will select a name, totem and neckerchief and will name several committees and a historian. The meeting is expected to conclude at 5 p. m.

The new chief said that in order for a person to become a charter member of the group, he must attend tomorrow's meeting and pay the initiation fee.

Other officers of the new lodge are Thomas Simpson, vice chief; Edward Witt, secretary, and William Hahn, treasurer. All officers must be under 21 years old and only those under 21 may take part in the election of officers.

Only one species of marsupial, the opossum, is found in North America.

Don't scratch your head in wonderment if you go to College Park tomorrow and see a tent behind the South Carolina bench.

That won't be a tepee of the Washington Redskins, rather a tent in which Warren Giese, South Carolina's head coach, will silently steal away. It isn't that Warren is afraid to watch the battle, rather a means for him to see the action closeup because in that tent will be a closed-circuit television show.

Maryland fans who were accustomed to seeing Giese roam the gridiron at College Park as an assistant to Jim Tatum for eight years will have to look before the game to get a glimpse of him tomorrow. Because when the kickoff comes, Giese will be in the tent before his TV set, studying the play of his ball-control Gamecocks.

At Maryland's weekly football press luncheon earlier this week, Terp athletic director Bill Cobe pointed out that it's up to the Terps as to whether Giese uses the tent and TV.

Maryland coach Tommy Mont said that is correct but added that as far as he is concerned Giese has permission. And that's the way it stands as of now.

Breedlove Second

According to Oscar Fraley, United Press International sports columnist, Cumberland's Rod Breedlove is running on the second team of the All-America squad picked by the American football coaches for UPI.

Teaming with Breedlove, Maryland's highly-regarded guard, is Bob Novogratz who has been a standout for Army in the first half of the campaign.

California quarterback Joe Kapp is the nation's top player at this stage of the season with a 118.530 Univac rating. Back Dick Bass of College of Pacific is second with 118.250 and Mary's Pete Dawkins third with 118.210, followed by Notre Dame's Nick Pietrosante, 118.060.

These figures come from the ratings of 145 coaches whose mathematical are fed into Univac, the mechanical brain. The compilations at the end of the season result in the All-America squad and a "team of the year."

The coaches use a system whereby each coach rates five of his own top players each week. Also taken into consideration is major or minor as well as the player's potential. These figures are then fed into Univac.

The All-America first team at this stage shows:
Ends—Sam Williams, Michigan State, and Dave Kocourek, Wisconsin.

Tackles—Brock Strom, Air Force Academy, and Elliott Schaubach, William and Mary. Guards—Dick Deiderich, Vanderbilt, and Mike McGee, Oklahoma.

Center—Bob Harrison, Oklahoma.
Backs—Kapp, Bass, Dawkins and Pietrosante.

Ridgeley, LaSalle Tangle In Stadium Tonight

Alco Eleven Plays Cadets On Road In League Clash

By JIM DAY

Times Scholastic Sports Editor
Three of the city's four Greater Cumberland schools will take to the gridirons tonight with one game being slated at the stadium. Ridgeley, already assured of its first winning season under coach Tom O'Connor, will tangle with LaSalle locally while Allegany's once-beaten Campers travel to Frederick to meet the Cadets in a Cumberland Valley Athletic League encounter. Fort Hill will be idle this weekend.

Hawks End Season
The Blackhaws, closing out their season, have bagged five of eight decisions as O'Connor winds up his third campaign as head coach. His 1956 eleven won four and lost five while last year's club could take but one triumph in nine tries.

The Hawks haven't beaten LaSalle since '56 and trail in the overall series, 12 games to five since the first meeting back in 1939.

The Explorers, angling for a .500 record, have dropped their last four attempts and are able to show but one triumph in six starts. LaSalle hasn't had a winning record since 1954 when bagging eight of ten games.

Tonight's contest may produce one of the biggest aerial shows ever seen at the stadium. Both clubs rely chiefly on their passing games.

The Blackhaws have gained the whopping total of 889 yards in their eight games on 50 of 110 completions. Ten of their tosses have gone for touchdowns. LaSalle, in changing its offense the past two games, has an overall record of 30 successful tosses in 72 tries for 336 yards and three six-pointers.

With sophomore quarterback Carroll Witt doing most of the tossing, the Explorers have thrown 40 aeriels in the last two starts and hit on 15 for 171 yards.

Allegany is still harboring hopes for a shot at the CVAL title and the Campers will be favored tonight to make Frederick their fifth straight victory, and third in four league starts. Also takes a 5-1 mark into the fray, the only defeat being at the hands of North Hagerstown, 33-14.

Campers Snap Back
Alco has snapped back since the loss to the Hubs, rolling over Keyser, 19-7; South Hagerstown, 33-12; Martinsburg, 38-14, and LaSalle, 19-6. The Campers have yet to lose to Frederick in their series, holding the Cadets scoreless twice with 20-0 and 12-0 wins in 1956 and 1957.

The Campers' 2-1 record puts them in third place behind pacing North Hagerstown (4-0-1) and runnerup Fort Hill (3-0-1). Frederick has a 12 loop slate and is 2-5 on the season.

Also on tonight's slate are four games involving CVAL teams with non-league opponents. North Hagerstown will be at Harrisburg, Pa., to meet Central Dauphin High. South Hagerstown is host to Handley of Winchester. Martinsburg is invaded by Warren County of Front Royal, Va., and Westminster takes on Hanover (Pa.) High at home.

The Hubs will be after their fifth triumph in seven attempts with the loss being to York, Pa., and a 5-6 deadlock with Fort Hill. The Rebels have yet to win in seven attempts while Martinsburg is 1-6 for the year and Westminster shows a 4-3 record.

Pioneers Meet Farmington
Romney's Pioneers have their annual clash with Farmington tomorrow afternoon at home. Coach Ed Hartman's eleven has bagged three victories while losing three times and having one draw.

The Pioneers have lost their last three attempts, losses being dishied out by Beall, 20-0; Ridgeley, 43-7, and Petersburg, 13-0. The tie was with Moorefield, 66, while triumphs were over Charles Town, 13-12; Franklin, 21-0, and University High of Morgantown, 26-12.

Farmington and the Pioneers have clashed seven times with the invaders showing four triumphs as against two losses and one tie game. Romney was beaten, 27-6, last fall and has not won since the 13-12 thriller in 1953. The tie came in 1952 when the clubs fought to a 12-12 stalemate.

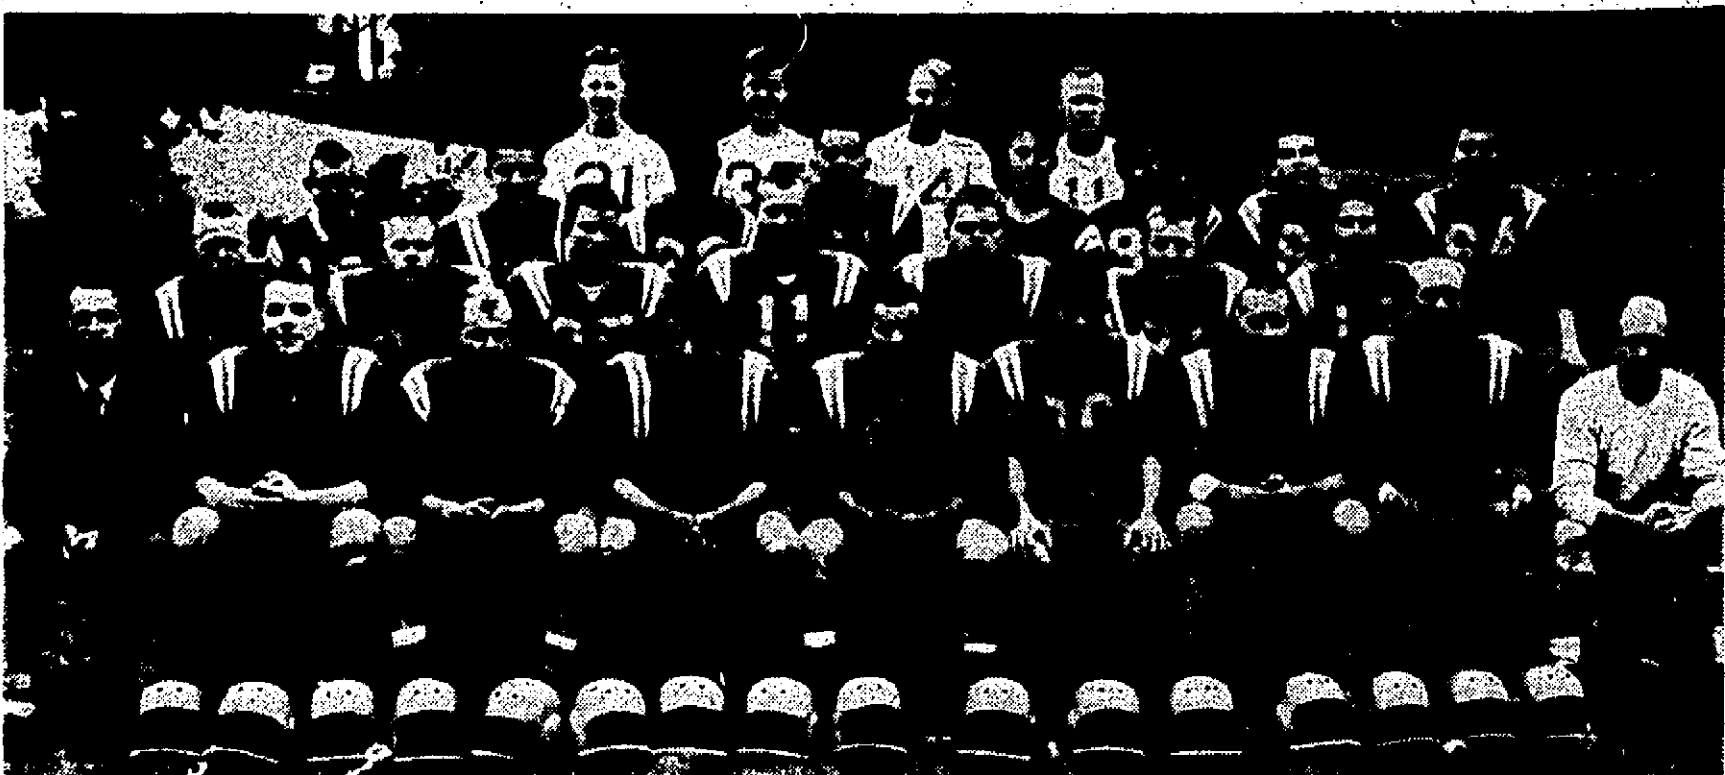

Bullets Get Morrison From Boston Celtics

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dwight "Red" Morrison, rebounding specialist with the Boston Celtics, was obtained today by the Baltimore Bullets pro basketball team.

The 28-year-old former Idaho cacer will join Baltimore's Eastern League entry in training during the weekend, the Bullets said. Morrison was a reserve with the Celtics.

Notre Dame-Pitt Game To Be On TV

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Notre Dame-Pittsburgh game at Pittsburgh Nov. 8 will be televised throughout the East.

TWO TO GO—If the West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney wins its game this afternoon against Hedgesville and the close-out a week from tomorrow when facing Mt. Airy at Philadelphia, it will finish as the district's only unbeaten, untied football team. The Lions, who have clinched at least a tie for their first PVC title in history, have also set a school win streak by taking their last eight games, six coming this season. The Lions are rated fourth in the state in Class A ratings. Members of the squad (left to right) in the first row are William Swain,

Shift To Coast Helps Hike Attendance 15.2 Per Cent

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—The shift of the Giants and Dodgers to the West Coast was chiefly responsible for boosting National League attendance a healthy 15.2 per cent during the 1958 season, official league figures showed today.

The 1958 attendance total of 10,164,596 paid admissions was the second highest in the league's 83-year history, topped only by the record 10,388,470 of the 1947 season, according to Dave Grote of the National League Service Bureau.

Considering the fact that 1947 was a post-war "boom" year, the past season's total turnout was an all-time high for a "normal" operating season, Grote pointed out. This was the only other season aside from 1947 that attendance went over 10-million.

Pirates Enjoy Increase

Besides the San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers, only two other clubs enjoyed a boost in attendance during 1958. These were the Pittsburgh Pirates, surprise second-place finishers, and the Chicago Cubs, who were in the first division during the first half of the season.

Overall, the 1958 attendance total was 1,344,995 more than the 8,819,601 of the previous season. The Dodgers accounted for 817,238 of this boost and the Giants drew 618,702 more fans than they did during the 1957 season at the Polo Grounds.

Pittsburgh attracted 461,256 more than 1957 and the Cubs had an increase of 309,275 fans. The pennant-winning Milwaukee Braves retained their overall attendance championship with a total of 1,971,101, but that figure was off 244,303 from 1957. This was the first season since the Braves shifted to Milwaukee from Boston that attendance fell below the 2-million mark.

Redlegs Suffer Drop

Biggest drop at the gate was suffered by the Cincinnati Redlegs. Their turnout slumped 282,268 from the 1,070,850 of the previous season.

In all, five clubs went over the million-mark in attendance. The St. Louis Cardinals, with 1,063,730, also did it, along with Milwaukee, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Pittsburgh.

In reviewing the 1958 season, Grote also came up with the following significant attendance figures: All eight clubs drew over the million-mark on the road. The only other year in which this was accomplished was 1947.

The league set a night-game record in 1958 when a total of 5,065,628 paid to watch games under lights, including two-night double-headers.

The Dodgers set two league attendance records at the Coliseum. They drew the largest National League crowd ever when 78,672 paid their way to the season-opening game against the Giants, April 18, and also the biggest night game turnout when 66,485 attended the July 3 two-night double-header against the Cardinals.

American Attendance Decreases 11 Per Cent

CHICAGO (UPI)—American League attendance decreased 11 per cent in 1958 with a total loss of 500,184, with only two clubs, Kansas City and Washington, showing higher figures than in 1957, it was announced today.

The league drew a total of 7,296,034 for 619 games compared to 8,196,218 in 1957. Kansas City was up 24,023 and Washington 18,203. Chicago showed the biggest drop, 338,217, while Baltimore was down 199,590.

Three teams drew more than a million fans, Detroit, Boston and New York, but all showed a drop from 1957. New York was high for

Frick Leaves For Caracas Baseball Trip

NEW YORK (AP)—A man placed a neat red box on Ford Frick's desk. Inside were two baseballs, properly autographed by the 1938 World Series teams.

Each rested on a shiny silver dollar, nestled in a plush lining. "These are for the president of Venezuela," said Frick who leaves today on a good neighbor trip to Caracas. The rest of the cast, including six ball players, will follow next week.

The commissioner of baseball is just getting back into the groove after an attack of appendicitis that forced him to miss the World Series. He lost 10 pounds during his illness.

"I hope to keep it off, too," said Frick who is finishing the first year of his second seven-year term.

Because of his appendectomy, Frick was home in Bronxville, N. Y., watching on television while the series was being played. It was the first he missed as a commissioner and the first time in many years as a former newspaper man and league president that he had not been on the series scene.

"I'm going down (to Caracas) by boat—for the rest—and the others are going to fly down next week," said Frick. "They already are playing winter ball down there. I will make some talks and help them on the organization end. The players and others will work with the kids on the sandlots and in the playgrounds."

Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia, the National League batting champ, Elston Howard of New York, Pete Runnels of Boston, Dick Groat and Bob Friend of Pittsburgh and Gus Triandos of Baltimore are the players. Frankie Frisch, the old Fordham flash and former manager, Cal Hubbard, umpire supervisor of the American League, and Buck Cantel, a sportscaster, are the others.

Romney JVs Topple Beall

Halfback Irvin "Peewee" McKee broke loose for a 35-yard touchdown run in the third period yesterday to give the Romney High JVs a 12-6 victory over the Beall High Junior Varsity at Frostburg. The win was the second for the Little Pioneers.

Romney dented the scoring column first in the second quarter following Johnny Blue's recovery of a Beall fumble on the 34. Blue went over from two yards out but his pass for the extra point was incomplete.

Beall's lone TD came on Don Bush's 65 yard run early in the third heat. Jim Robertson's attempted placement try was blocked. Kline's try for Romney's extra point after the second TD was also blocked.

Beall outgained the winners, 167 yards net to 81, getting 25 yards on one completed pass for three attempts. Romney's lone aerial was incomplete.

Beall's next engagement is with LaSalle High's Jayvees November 10.

LSU Six-Point Favorite Over Ole Miss In Top Tilt

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press International

Louisiana State and Mississippi, two of the perfect-record giants of college football, clash Saturday night to determine which shall go on and challenge other powers like Iowa, Army, Ohio State and Auburn for the national championship.

LSU, ranked fifth in the nation by the United Press International Board of Coaches, is a six-point favorite to beat sixth-ranked Ole Miss in this heralded "meeting of the unbeaten" at Baton Rouge.

LSU have 6-0 records. This game has two other important facets beside the high national ranking and preservation of a spotless record. The winner is a good bet to go on to the Southeastern Conference championship and fall heir to a berth in the Sugar Bowl New Year's Day.

Quarterbacks Bobby Franklin and Billy Brewer appear to make Mississippi the better passing team, but LSU boasts a superior "grind 'em down" running game because of halfbacks Billy Cannon and Johnny Robinson, and fullback Tommy Davis. LSU's line makes up in speed for what it lacks in weight, compared to the Rebels.

Another perfect record and a likely bowl berth are at stake at Boulder, Colo., where undefeated and untied Colorado takes on seventh-ranked Oklahoma in a Big Eight Conference showdown. Coach Bud Wilkinson's men are favored by seven. The winner undoubtedly will be the conference representative in the Orange Bowl.

Although the Sooners haven't lost a conference game in their last 67, they were held to a 21-21 tie by the Buffs in 1952 and were forced to come from behind before beating Colorado in their last two games. Colorado, ranked 11th this week, is one of the nation's four remaining perfect-record teams. It hasn't beaten Oklahoma since 1912.

Rutgers, the fourth of the unbeaten—untied major colleges, takes on a small-college toughie in Delaware at Newark, Del., but is favored to keep its record unsullied.

The teams occupying the top four rankings—all with records of four victories against one tie—all are favored, but by widely varying margins.

Iowa Favored
Iowa, ranked tops in the nation and hungry for a Rose Bowl bid, is picked by eight at home against beleaguered Michigan second-ranked Army is picked 32 points over Colgate at West Point, N. Y.; third-ranked Ohio State is six over Northwestern at Evanston, Ill., and fourth-ranked Auburn was six over Florida at Gainesville, Fla.

The No. 1 intersectional battle of the days finds Notre Dame a three-point favorite over Navy at Baltimore, Md. In the game to be televised nationally by NBC, Wisconsin is picked by six points over Michigan State at East Lansing, Mich. Both have slim Rose Bowl hopes.

Other Big Games
There also are big games in the Pacific Coast, Southwest and Atlantic Coast conferences, involving the Rose, Cotton and Orange Bowls. Oregon State is a slim one-point pick over California at Corvallis, Ore., in the race for the PCC title; Southern Methodist was favored by three over Texas at Austin, Tex., and Clemson was an 8-point choice at home against Wake Forest in the AAC.

Catamounts Play Dover, Seek No. 3

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Unbeaten Glenville closes out its season at home against Fairmont Saturday in the top game involving West Virginia in a Conference teams this weekend.

Other league games will find Concord at Shepherd, Salem at Davis & Elkins, West Liberty at West Virginia State and Potomac State at Wesley College, Dover, Del.

Non-loop encounters include Bethany at Washington & Jefferson, Bluefield State at Fayetteville, N. C., Emory & Henry at Tech and Wesleyan at Bridgewater, Va.

Glenville has won five games and tied one, while Fairmont, the defending champion, tasted defeat for the first time last Saturday at Tech. The Falcons have four wins and a 7-7 tie with Shepherd along with the loss. If Fairmont wins, it will virtually eliminate the Pioneers from title consideration. Glenville has not won a crown since 1947.

Shepherd faces a similar situation. The Rams must beat Concord and hope for a Glenville loss to cop its first championship since 1950. Shepherd shows three wins and a tie, but leads the conference in the rating system with a 108.8 mark, compared to 103.3 by Glenville.

A loss by both the Rams and Glenville would throw new light on the loop race. Fairmont and Tech each have one more league game while Shepherd, like Glenville, winds up its WVU season. Potomac State will be seeking its third victory in seven games in the contest at Dover. The Catamounts have a record of two wins, three losses and a tie.

57,773 Will See Middies Battle Irish

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two magic names of college football, Notre Dame and Navy, will draw another capacity crowd of 57,773 to Memorial Stadium tomorrow.

The ticket supply ran out weeks ago although it was obvious neither eleven was going to come up to their game undefeated as deemed possible before the season started.

Notre Dame was tumbled by Army and Purdue, but close observers feel it might have won with a little luck of the Irish. Navy was stopped by Tulane and still is ranked 15th by the Associated Press.

Have Band, Will Travel

The 32nd consecutive game between Navy and Notre Dame is the student travel trip for the Irish and 700 will make it along with the band. Back at South Bend, the game will be on closed circuit television.

It will be aired around the country on two radio networks (ANV and Mutual 2 p. m. EST).

A passing battle is in the wind. Navy has depended a good deal all season on the right arm of Quarterback Joe Tranchini. The junior from Clairton, Pa., has connected for seven of Navy's 19 touchdowns.

Coach Terry Brennan also might have tipped his thinking by giving his quarterback call to George Izo, a junior, in place of senior Bob Williams.

Izo passed for two touchdowns in Notre Dame's late rally against Purdue as the Irish operated from a spread formation.

Running Thrills Likely

Running thrills are likely to come from a pair of highly rated sophomore halfbacks. Bill Mack is averaging 6.6 yards a carry for Notre Dame while Joe Bellino has gone 4.6 clip for Navy.

Neither coach will be able to use what he considers his starting line because of injuries although each will have his best back in uniform. Bob Reifnyder will make his first appearance of the season at tackle for Navy while Al Ecuyster is ready again at guard for Notre Dame after two weeks of little action.

While the Irish-Middle clash holds the interest of Baltimore, Maryland will be holding forth for its followers at College Park and Western Maryland at Westminster.

The downrodden Marylanders faced rugged South Carolina and Western Maryland squares off against Franklin & Marshall.

Johns Hopkins travels to Randolph-Macon and Morgan to North Carolina A & T.

Maryland, which has considerable trouble scoring while losing five of its six games, finds no solace in looking at South Carolina's defense.

Except for Army, South Carolina has given up only four touchdowns to Duke, Georgia, North Carolina State, the only victim.

Russian Horses Arrive At Laurel

BALTIMORE (AP)—Russia's two entries in the Laurel International arrived by air today from Europe and after only a few minutes' delay were vanned to the track.

The horses and handlers flew into New York during the early morning hours then were flown here on a charter flight.

A blood sample was taken from each horse and sent immediately to Washington for checking. The results of the test should be known by late today or early tomorrow and the horses cleared for workouts on the track.

The $100,000 International, a turf race, will be run Nov. 11.

Evgeni Dolmatov, chief trainer of the horses, Garmy and Zaryad, was asked how the horses had taken the trip from Europe.

"Bad," he replied. "It was too long."

He explained that the horses, top Russian thoroughbreds, left Moscow by train last Saturday. He said there had been a long delay in Berlin before the plane carrying the horses and their attendants, took off for London and New York.

Ezzard Charles Barred In Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Texas closed its boxing doors to former champion Ezzard Charles Thursday, telling the 37-year-old fighter the action was taken "not only for the best interest of boxing but also for your own health."

Charles, once a boxer of great skill, took a pitiful beating Monday night in losing by a knock-out to nationally unknown Donnie Fleeman, the Texas lightweight champion.

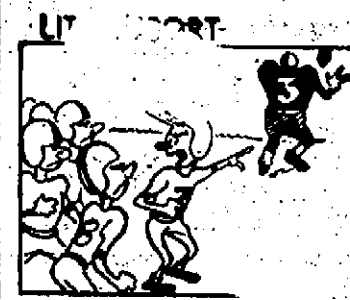

Charles' indefinite suspension was announced by Alton Erickson, supervisor of boxing and wrestling for the Texas Bureau of Labor Statistics. Erickson made his announcement in a letter to Charles.

Erickson's office said it was assumed that all states that are members of the National Boxing Association would abide by the Texas suspension.

Terps Battle Gamecocks In Homecoming

COLLEGE PARK — University of Maryland will host the Gamecocks of South Carolina tomorrow in Byrd Stadium in the annual homecoming gridiron attraction. Kickoff is at 1:30 p. m.

The game also will be the homecoming of Carolina coach Warren Giese, a Terp assistant for eight years before he took the head coaching job at South Carolina in 1956.

Both games of the series since Tommy Mont took over at Maryland in 1956, have been played in Columbia. The Gamecocks won the first, 13-0, then last year the Terps came out on top, 10-6. The Red and White came from a 6-3 deficit in the fourth quarter as Jim Joyce plunged over from the one-yard line for the victory margin. Joyce, a junior this year, is the Terps' workhorse in the backfield.

Giese brings a 3-2 record into the Atlantic Coast Conference game. The Gamecocks are 2-1 in the ACC with victories over Duke and Clemson and a loss to North Carolina. The Terps are 1-5 overall and 1-3 in the conference. Their win was over NC State while losing to Wake Forest, Clemson and North Carolina.

In Alex Hawkins and King Dixon, senior halfbacks, Giese has two of the top halfback combinations, not only in the South, but in football today. They are a constant threat both running and passing. Fullback John Saunders is another top running ball carrier. Senior Bobby Bunch directs the Gamecock attack. Up front, they are led by two fine tackles in Don Rogers and Ed Pitts; guards Corky Gaines and John Bodkin; center Lawton Rogers, and ends Jerry Frye and Bucky Walker.

Bassey 4-1 Pick Tonight

NEW YORK (UPI)—Featherweight champion Hogan Kid Bassey seeks his ninth straight victory tonight as he makes his New York debut in a non-title fight with Carmelo Costa, Brooklyn "colie."

Because of his combined boxer-puncher prowess, the stubby little champion from Nigeria, Africa, is favored at 4-1 to win their nationally televised and broadcast 10-round at Madison Square Garden.

Dark-haired Costa, inspired by a two-week-old baby daughter, hopes to upset the African and force a title bout. Carmelo is smart and fast but betting men apparently figure he lacks the punch to lick Hogan.

Bassey, 26-year-old son of a Nigerian farmer, is the shortest of all featherweight champions. This ruler of the 126-pound division stands only 5-feet, 3-inches. He's an inch and a half shorter than Costa. But with the gloves on he's a "big man," beaten only twice in the past five years.

Gambling Ring Getting Bigger

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—David Martin, eighth college student arrested in two days in connection with a football card betting ring, was to be arraigned this morning on charges of participating in an illegal occupation.

Martin, 19, Detroit, a sophomore at Eastern Michigan College, Ypsilanti, Mich., was arrested by members of the state police racket squad and Ypsilanti police Thursday night.

The arrest was the first official indication the gambling ring, revealed by police in a crackdown on seven University of Michigan students, had been operating on more than one campus.

However, Detroit police continued their probe of possible ties with Wayne State University, Detroit, and Denby High School.

J. W. Brown Holds Big Seniors Leads

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—Defending champion J. W. Brown of Sea Girl, N. J., held a five-stroke lead going into today's final round of the 54-hole Southern Seniors Golf Tournament.

Brown, who won the North and South Seniors tourney here last week, held a one-stroke edge after the first 18-hole round Wednesday, firing a 71. Leon Sikes of Palm Beach, Fla., had a 72.

Horton Smith Voted Into PGA Hall Fame

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI)—Horton Smith, two-time Masters champion, today was voted into the Professional Golfers' Association Hall of Fame by a landslide vote. Harold Sargent, president of the PGA, announced that Smith received 821 votes in a nationwide poll of his fellow PG members. Election to the Hall of Fame is based on playing ability. A man must be 50 years old or more and out of active competition.

Major In Rut Hoople Rehires Grid Staff But Results Remain Same

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
(Chief Cheerleader Scout)

HAK-KAFF! Vindictiveness is not a Hoople trait. Even during bitter rivalries I saw to it that my team did not embarrass the other side by piling points onto my usual substantial victory margin.

So it was in keeping with my normal behavior pattern when I rehired the entire staff I dismissed. Dr. Quentin Zlobotny, the fourth dimension scientist; Red Board Daly, salary expert; Dr. Vladimir McGrath, astronomer—egad! They are all aiding me with my football forecasts at this very moment.

I must admit this change of heart came during the elation which swept over me when Mighty Mysteria pulled out the monumental triumph against Dental Tech last Saturday. News of it had, of course, first appeared in this space well before the contest took place. It was a feather in my cap, as they say.

Second Feather

The second feather will be added tonight when the smiling Irishman from Ridgeley, coach Tom O'Connor, sees his Blackhaws soar to new heights under his regime by shooting down LaSalle's Explorers. Remember last week when I prognosticated that the LaSalle-Allegany scrap would be a high-scoring game? This will be the same (now figure that one out).

In resuming staff work, a number of obstacles had to be overcome. First, I fell into strange working habits when I dismissed my staff for complacency. Egad! I wouldn't begin mathematical compilation until late in the evening.

This, of course, cannot be done with Dr. McGrath. As we well know, he is vitally interested in celestial bodies and his evenings are spent gazing at them. (Something on the order of Purdue's "Golden Girl," no doubt).

Therefore, I am back on the day shift as it were. My amazing forecasts will show the results, I feel, of startling concentration. Go no farther than the Mysteria-Macabre U. Hollow Ween Bowl game of tomorrow.

Timely Topic

As usual this ghostly game is played on what we consider the day after Halloween. But, due to the difference in time and location of Mysteria, the school operates a full day behind the rest of the nation. It, of course, allows students to get in an extra day of classes each term and permits coach Frank Fiction to round out his schedule of 54 games before the major bowl selections are announced. Fiction has told the student body he won't think of re-employment until Mysteria is represented in a major bowl game.

I say, without equivocation, Mighty Mysteria will maul Macabre and classes will be suspended on the midnight shift at the School of Mines. Before departing I must leave you with these, Florida to whip Auburn, Colorado to outscore Oklahoma, Maryland to sock South Carolina, Navy to sink Notre Dame and Northwestern to stop Ohio State.

Adam Walsh Seen Headed Back To Irish

BRUNSWICK, Maine (UPI)—Adam Walsh, the former Notre Dame All America who resigned Thursday night as Bowdoin College football coach, may return to his alma mater as head coach, it was reported today.

Local sources said there was a "good deal of unrest" among Irish alumni in regard to the coaching record of Terry Brennan, currently the Notre Dame mentor.

The reports said alumni were particularly disturbed over Notre Dame's "poor" seasons recently and their relatively below par showing this season. They have lost two games, to Army and Purdue, and have been pressed to win in several other games.

Walsh, who captained and centered Notre Dame's famous "Four Horsemen," had been head coach at Bowdoin for 19 years. He served from 1935 to 1943 and then left to accept a line coach spot in South Bend. Later he returned to Bowdoin.

In 1945, Walsh resigned at Notre Dame to take over as coach of the Cleveland Rams, leading the National Football League club to its first league title in that year. In 1946 the Rams moved to Los Angeles and took second place.

The 57-year old former star returned to Bowdoin the following year and has remained there until now. His resignation becomes effective Dec. 31.

MacPhail May Be Colts' GM

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Lee MacPhail may wind up as the Baltimore Orioles' general manager and farm system director in the team's latest shake-up.

The son of former New York Yankee boss Larry MacPhail was identified as one of the men under consideration for the Orioles' dual position Thursday. He currently is player personnel director for the Yankees.

The elder MacPhail, now a breeder and owner of thoroughbred horses at nearby Bel Air, Md., admitted his son had been contacted about joining the Baltimore organization but declined further comment.

Paul Richards has served as field manager and general manager of the Orioles since 1955 but reportedly is seeking an assistant. The Orioles also must find a replacement for Executive Vice President Bill Walsingham, who resigned Wednesday.

Statner Again 'Shuteye' Victim

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Pittsburgh Steeler defensive star Ernie Statner, who slept through the Cleveland Browns game, may miss the Washington Redskins contest Sunday because of another type of "shut eye."

The All-Pro tackle, who also played defensive end earlier in the season, suffered a bruised eye in New York last week against the Giants. Hemorrhages developed and Statner has limited vision in the left eye.

Two weeks ago a doctor erroneously administered a strong drug to Statner to relieve a shoulder pain. The reaction sent Statner into a deep sleep and he was rushed to Cleveland Clinic where oxygen was administered.

Yanks And Nats Pondering Trade

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane said today he hopes the New York Yankees and Washington Senators complete a trade rumored Thursday night.

According to a story in the New York Daily News, the world champions of baseball have offered pitcher Johnny Kucks and Tom Sturdivant plus infielder Bobby Richardson for Washington pitcher Pedro Ramos, a right-hander who won 14 and lost 18 for the last place Senators in 1958.

The Tribe general manager believes he would have a better chance of obtaining Richardson from the Senators than the Yanks. Cleveland is in need of a second baseman and sought Richardson last winter.

Lane admitted he also had been interested in Ramos.

The first afternoon contest of the local 1958 football season will be staged next Friday when the Fort Hill Sentinels meet South Hagerstown at the stadium at 2:15 p. m.

The contest had been scheduled for next Friday night but coach Bill Hahn of the Red Raiders announced this morning that it had been switched to the afternoon. Officials feel that it will also give more students an opportunity to see the teams play.

The Rebels will bring their band and a large delegation of Hagerstown students are expected to be on hand.

The game is the next to last of the season for the Red Raiders who close out in the annual Turkey Day contest with Allegany.

Jacoby On Bridge

Double Locates Hidden Kings

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

The sudden death of George Heath of Dallas came as a shock to his many friends all over the country. George was perhaps the finest dummy player of all time and today's hand played in a rubber bridge game some years ago was one of his very best.

If West had opened a diamond there would be no story but West opened the deuce of hearts. George won with the king and discarded a diamond on the ace. He ruffed a third heart and led the king of trumps. East won the trick and played the ace and another diamond which George ruffed high.

Now George played a low spade to dummy's eight and ruffed the last heart. His next play was a humdinger. He led the queen of clubs! West covered with the king and East dropped the jack in desperation.

Why did George make that unusual club play? Easy for George. West had doubled and had shown up with the king of diamonds only. Surely he needed another king for that double.

British Keep Tight Control On Campaign

Solons Backing Up Corrupt Practices Law Should Study

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican and Democratic senators who want sharper teeth in the Corrupt Practices Act governing U. S. elections are referred herewith to the Representation of the Peoples Acts (RPA) which govern elections in Great Britain.

RPA imposes the strictest kind of rules such as to bewilder an honest American politician and almost surely entrap a crook. British Socialists imposed RPA in 1948 and 1949. British Conservatives and Liberals, however, cheerfully have accepted these campaign restrictions which would make the going hard for almost any American seeking almost any public office, honest though he be.

The Socialist idea was to limit or to abolish any campaign advantage a rich man might have over a poor man. The Socialists enacted laws to limit spending, and they are enforced. Use of automobiles to haul voters to and from the polls is limited, and "treating" by a candidate is positively forbidden. No campaign cigars. It is not against the rules to kiss babies. But don't lend a voter money if you plan to run for parliament in Britain.

Loans Banned
Even a small loan to a voter made in good faith would be sufficient to disqualify a candidate if, by chance, a national election were called within six months after the loan transaction. Your British neighbor may take members of his household to the polling place in the family automobile. But he must not offer you a lift, nor any other person who is not of his household.

The candidate's campaign manager or agent may register before polling day a limited number of automobiles to transport voters, one car for every 2,500 voters in a city district, one for every 1,500 in the country. If a car breaks down on election day, it may not be replaced.

One of the penalties for breaking some of these campaign and election day rules is disqualification of the candidate if he is elected and punishment for his campaign agent.

Agent Responsible
The agent is responsible for his candidate's conformity with the election rules. The person he manages and gets elected to the House of Commons probably will need outside work to support his family. The salary is $2,900 a year with $5.60 added for each day the Commons is in session. That usually brings it to around $3,500 before taxes. Members of the U.S. Congress are paid $22,500 a year, plus office space and, secretarial help and some travel and other expense allowance.

The British agent does not make anything like that sum, but he usually does better than his client, the candidate, after absorbing a course in election law and obtaining a certificate of proficiency. The candidate may spend $200 of his personal funds on his personal campaign. The agent is limited to spending between $1,600 and $1,800, depending on the constituency — and that is all. The candidate is disqualified if his agent spends more than that.

Voter Protected
Sturdy protection of the voter and assurance that his vote will be counted are entrenched in British election laws and in British tradition, which is considerably more than can be said of the United States. It has been a long, long time since any British ballot boxes have been tampered with or stolen, especially from official premises, all of which, and more, has happened in the United States more recently.

And if a labor goon or a big business goon or any goon showed up around a British polling place, he would be chucked in jail, quick: Another switch on U. S. election habits.

More Teacher Prospects
MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — There apparently is an increase in interest in entering teaching among West Virginia University students. Dean E. K. Feaster of the College of Education said today enrollment in the university's undergraduate teacher education program was 11 per cent higher than a year ago.

Boston Common, oldest public park in the United States, was designated in 1634 for common use as a "cow pasture and training field."

Wage Increase Noted In Building Trades

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Average wages of union building trades workers rose one and one-half cents to $3.35 an hour in the third quarter of the year, the Labor Department has said.

The wage level Oct. 1 was 4.6 per cent higher than the previous October, the department said, and 63 per cent above the 1947-49 average.

McFarland And Goldwater Pitched Together In Bitter Battle For Senate

By B. J. McFARLAND
PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Arizona, a right-to-work state, decides Nov. 4 whether to send former Senate Democratic majority leader Ernest McFarland back to Congress, or stick with Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater — labeled a "public enemy" by labor. The state is registered Democrat almost 3-1, but that number is deceiving because many Democrats here are of a conservative nature. A Democrat could win an election easy by getting 50 per cent of the registered Democratic vote, but McFarland lost once, to Goldwater in 1952, and Adlai Stevenson lost here twice to Dwight Eisenhower. That's why the experts predict a close battle between Goldwater and McFarland when voters go to the polls. Goldwater strategists believe their man can win again by pinning the "union label" on McFarland in this campaign. McFarland, who is completing his second term as governor in the interim since his defeat by Goldwater in the first Eisenhower landslide election, isn't wearing the union tag. Democrats are banking on McFarland to whip Goldwater and further strengthen their hold in Congress, particularly the Senate. Goldwater got his "public enemy" identification in labor circles because of his heated and constant feuding with United Auto Workers president Walter Reuther over union interference in political affairs. Goldwater charges McFarland is receiving powerful financial aid from organized labor in the campaign.

McFarland flatly denies the contention, saying, "Where is the money? Where is the evidence? This whole thing is a smoke-screen thrown up to obscure the expenses of my opponent. Where we spend $100, they spend $500 and more. The cost of my opponent's billboards alone, according to estimates made, is more than the cost of my whole campaign."
